KINGSTON PLANS ROUSING WELCOME FOR MR. HUGHES

Enthusiastic Support Pledged for Demonstration in Honor of Republican Candidate Who Will Address Mass Meeting Friday at the Opera House.

Ulster county will give an old-fashioned reception to Former Governor Charles E. Hughes when he visits Kingston on Friday morning, at which time he will speak at the big Republican mass meeting to be held in the Kingston Opera House at 10:30 o'clock.

On account of the necessity of keeping to the time schedule for his special train, the meeting will begin on time, and there will be no delay after Mr. Hughes arrives at the opera house.

An automobile escort for Mr. Hughes from the Rhinecliff ferry to the opera house will be one of the biggest automobile demonstrations ever seen in Kingston, and Mr. Hughes will be made to realize fully that he is once again in the home of his friends.

The Hughes special train will reach Rhinecliff at 10:15 o'clock and a special tug will be waiting there to convey him and the members of his party across the river. The boat will land at the Rhinecliff ferry, where the automobile escort will be waiting for him, and he will be taken at once to the Kingston Opera House. Automobile owners from all parts of the county have announced their intention of participating in the demonstration in honor of Mr. Hughes, whose visit here will far surpass in the enthusiasm accorded him any reception ever given to any man.

At the close of his speech at the opera house, Mr. Hughes will again be escorted to the Rhinecliff ferry, where a tug will convey the party to Rhinecliff. The special train will leave Rhinecliff at 12:15 o'clock.

The automobile committee is composed of A. D. Pardee, Matthew H. Herzog and George J. Schryver, and an opportunity will be afforded to every automobile owner in the county to aid in the demonstration for Mr. Hughes.

The Hughes party's itinerary for the swing through New York State on Thursday and Friday is as follows:

Thursday—Batavia, 11:15 a. m. to 1 p. m., Oneida, 3 to 3:15 p. m., Schenectady, 5:35 to 6:35 p. m.; Troy, 7:20 to 8:05 p. m.; Albany 8:30 p. m.

Friday—Leave Albany 8:15 a. m.; Hudson, 8:45 to 9:45 a. m.; Kingston, arr. Rhinecliff, 10:15 a. m., leave Rhinecliff, 12:15 p. m.; Poughkeepsie, 12:40-1:45 p. m.; Newburgh arr. Beacon, 2:10 p. m.; leave Beacon, 3:45 p. m., Yonkers, 5:5:45 p. m.; arrive New York 6:15 p. m.; evening, meetings in Brooklyn.

Saturday, November 4th—Meetings in New York City.

The Hughes special train consists of a baggage, club and dining car, three sleeping cars and the private car, "National." Aboard the train are: Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, Charles W Farnham, manager of tour; E. C. Cook, transportation manager, Lawrence H. Green, private secretary, and secretary service men, stenographers and typists.

The newspaper men traveling with the Republican candidate are: Frank E. Perley, the World; William Hoster, American; Rodney Bean, Times; Thomas J. Ross, Tribune; Eugene Ackerman, Herald; Edwin C. Hill, Sun; George T. Odell, Mail; Frederick M. Davenport, The Outlook; Perry Arnold, the United Press; William P. Helm, Jr., the Associated Press; R. B. Smith, the International News; James C. White, Boston Herald; Ellis W. Davidson, Springfield Republican; Mark Sullivan, Colliers.

O'Connor Shot a Deer.

Charles R. O'Connor, cashier of the Rondout National Bank, is on a hunting trip in the Adirondacks. According to friends Mr. O'Connor is meeting with success and has bagged a large deer, and the friends are expecting to be invited to a deer steak dinner when Mr. O'Conner returns home. Late reports state that Mr. O'Connor bagged the deer with the first shot. It might be stated that Mr O'Connor has quite a reputation as a bowler which might also account for his being a good shot.

Touring Car Burned.

A 1912 model Cadillac touring car owned by the Ulster Garage burned on Lucas turnpike Saturday night, and the remains were towed this morning to the garage on Fair street. The car was well known among tourists who found it one of the most comfortable and speedy in this vicinity and it was in perfect running condition at the time it was destroyed. The car had traveled more than 75,000 miles.

Shot Four Deer.

G. Van Wilkens of this city, W. D. Boice and Herbert Worden of Newburgh have returned from a ten day hunting trip in the Adirondacks. While away, the party had the good luck to kill four deer and now their friends are looking forward to a venison dinner.

VOTE "YES" UPON PROPOSITION NO. 1

Catskills Would be Benefited Under $10,000,000 Bond Issue for Increasing Area of State Forests—Judge Clearwater Presents Plea.

That voters of the Catskill region should realize the importance to them of the passage of the $10,000,000 bond issue to be submitted to them as Proposition No. 1 at the coming election is the plea of Judge Clearwater who, in a letter to The Freeman, points out the benefits to be derived by the public from the additions to the state forest preserve thus made possible. The letter is self-explanatory and reads as follows:

To the Electors of the County of Ulster:

At the coming election the voters of the state will determine whether a bond issue for $10,000,000 shall be authorized for increasing the area of the state parks, which include the Adirondack and Catskill forest preserves, and the Palisades. The official ballot designates the proposition as No. 1. In the Adirondack and Catskill mountains the state owns 1,814,550 acres of forest and lakes made forever inviolate by constitutional protection. It also owns 26,000 acres of the Palisades Interstate Park, and it is imperative to enlarge these holdings. In the Adirondack and Catskill region the state holds only forty per cent of the lands which everywhere are intermixed with tracts of privately owned forest, subject to uncontrolled cutting. If this privately owned property is to become the property of the state, it must be purchased now before the cutting off of the trees has gone so far as to make it worthless to this and to succeeding generations. The first lumbering operations in the Adirondacks and Catskills were for tan bark and soft wood, the hard wood being left comparatively untouched. Within the last few years, however, this privately owned sixty per cent of land in the Adirondacks and Catskills has largely been cut by the cleaning out of the hard wood by large lumbering corporations which are making a clean sweep of every tree that can in any way be utilized. It is hardly needed that I should speak of the importance to the people of Ulster of the ownership by the state of all the uncultivated Catskill region. In my opinion it is one of the most beautiful in the world. It has been my fortune to be somewhat familiar with the White, the Green, the Adirondack, the Alleghany, the Blue Ridge and the Great Smoky mountains; with the highlands of Scotland, the Swiss, French and Italian Alps, and while there are higher peaks, there is no more beautiful range than our own Catskills. Some who read this letter will remember when the Catskills were covered with hemlock. There are many who will recall the denuded mountain sides, littered with decaying hemlock logs, the bark having been stripped by the tanner.

We have today the second growth of maple and other hard wood which forever should be preserved, therefore I hope the voters of Ulster, Greene, Delaware, Sullivan and Schoharie, without regard to political or partisan inclination, will support and vote for the proposed constitutional amendment of which I speak.

A 69 Year Old Milk Thief.

A downtown man, 69 years old, was arrested on Sunday by Policeman Boyd on the complaint of A. Adin, the milk man. The old man had stolen a bottle of milk from the porch of one of Mr. Adin's customers. The thief is the father of a respectable family and the milkman did not care to press the charge, and Recorder Lang discharged the thief with a warning that if he did not keep sober and refrain from stealing that he would send him to Albany to serve time. It is said that the thief had taken milk from front porches on various occasions.

Mass Meeting And Smoker.

Arrangements are rapidly being completed for the Republican mass meeting and smoker to be held on Wednesday evening in Griffiths's Hall on lower Hasbrouck avenue. Every voter should make it a point to attend and hear the issues of the campaign.

A Distinguished Visitor.

Among the distinguished visitors at the Blue Dome Fellowship art exhibit, being held at Wiltwyck Inn, on Saturday last, was Joseph Cooper Hewitt of New York city.

MASONS, BUILDERS & GENERAL CONTRACTORS
148 W. FOURTH STREET
NEW YORK CITY

Oct. 27, 1916.

Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman,
3-9 Broadway,
Kingston, New York.

Dear Sir:—

I want to thank you for the article in your issue of Oct 23rd, entitled "All Trace Lost of His Children", congratulate you on having the best advertising medium in the State, from my point of view and inform you that I received a letter to-day from George Granger's daughter, Edith M. Granger, saying that she and two of her brothers are living and her address is Pittsford, N. Y., a suburb of Rochester, I think, and they will soon come into their own. She wants to thank all who interested themselves in the family and especially the "Freeman" and

Yours Sincerely,

Charles H. VanAken.

The above letter refers to a news story published in The Freeman on Monday, October 23, telling of the difficulties which had been experienced in ascertaining the whereabouts of a son and a daughter of George Granger, a former resident of Kingston, who died in New York this month after having been out of all touch with his family for twenty years. The story stated that the deceased had been a member of a benevolent association of railway employes and that his estate would receive a death benefit. A considerable sum of money was said to be awaiting the children after all expenses had been paid. It was published in the news of the day and appears to have been of service in supplying a prompt connection with one of the heirs as the letter states.

GIRL'S QUICK WIT FOILED BURGLARS

Attempted Daylight Robbery on Albany Avenue on Sunday—Nurse Girl With Aid of Telephone Foils Burglars—Gagged and Bound.

The quick wit of Miss Elsie Girt, a nurse girl employed by James Snead, saved her employer's house at No. 309 Albany avenue, from being robbed on Sunday afternoon by two strangers. The attempt to rob the house was one of the boldest in some time in this city.

The Sneads have resided on Albany avenue for only a short time. On Sunday they had gone out, leaving the nurse alone in the house. Shortly afterward two men entered the house by the rear door, which was unlocked. The girl, hearing some one moving about, went to investigate. When she saw the two strange men she ran toward the telephone, with the men after her. She managed to pull down the receiver and call into the telephone "Police" when she was seized by the men and a gag formed of a blue bandana handkerchief was stuffed into her mouth and tied with a piece of cord. Her hands were also tied behind her back.

The telephone girl who answered the telephone when she heard the one word "Police" immediately notified police headquarters and Sergeant Hanley, Officer Reardon and Patrol Driver Simon Wood hastened to the house.

The two men, however, had made their escape. The girl when questioned said that she had managed to leave the house and run out in the backyard where she fainted. Edward Cantine, who drives for Robert Hutton, who resides in an adjoining house, saw the girl fall in the yard and went to her assistance and was surprised to find her gagged and bound. He loosed her. The girl said she had heard the men say when they found she had called into the 'phone the word "Police" that they had "better beat it." They did, leaving no trace behind.

None of the neighbors when questioned remembered seeing the men enter the house or leave it. Undoubtedly the men would have made a haul if the girl had not telephoned as she did.

The girl described the men to the police. One was about 50 years old, sort and thickset, wearing a grey shirt and dark clothes. The other man was younger and taller than his companion.

All afternoon Chief Wood and Sergeant Hanley searched the neighborhood and the West Shore railroad yard, but failed to locate the men.

Saugerties Has New Cop.

The village board of Saugerties has appointed Victor Reynolds a policeman to succeed Harry Gilmore, who is still in this city, where he arrived last Tuesday. Mr. Reynolds is better known as "Pop" and went to Saugerties from Woodstock where he had served as constable. He will have charge of the Main street beat, and being of good size and weight should make the right kind of an officer. He assumed his duties Sunday.

Fatal Automobile Accident.

G. F. Morgareidge of Grand Gorge died early Friday morning from injuries sustained last Wednesday on the Prattsville bridge, where his motorcycle collided with an automobile driven by Ed. More of Prattsville. A trained nurse was summoned from Kingston and several physicians attended the injured man. The body was removed to his former home in Ohio. Deceased is survived by a widow, two sons and two daughters.

WAR AT A GLANCE

In spite of storms and mud hard fighting was again reported today from every war theater except the Italian.

While the Germans claim to have made further progress against the Russo-Rumanians, it is evident that the Austro-German conquest of Rumania is again meeting with strong obstacles. In the Szurduk Valley (Transylvanian front) one of von Falkenhayn's flanking columns was put to night by the violent assaults of the Russians and Rumanians. Southeast of Rothenthurm Pass the Germans have captured several strongly defended heights from the Russo-Rumanian troops. Another flare-up of fighting is imminent in Dobrudja where von Mackensen's forces are in touch with Russian infantry and cavalry.

For the time being interest has shifted from Verdun to the Somme front, in France. The Germans by a powerful thrust out from Peronne have recaptured Maissonnette Farm from the French.

Russian attacks against the Austro-Germans in Volhynia and Servian and French attacks on the German and Bulgarian positions in the Balkans continue unceasingly.

NUGGETS OF NEWS.

Unusual Events Briefly Told in Telegraph Despatches.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York—For selling a sweet potato for a penny on the Sabbath, Harry Gold, a peddler, was fined $5.

Glens Falls, N. Y.—Harold Van Buren, a bellboy at the Rockwell House, has gone to New York city to claim a fortune said to be about $6,000,000 left by an uncle.

Orange, N. J.—Albert Rapaport plunged down a forty-foot embankment in his automobile which landed on top of him. He sustained only minor cuts and bruises.

Greensburg, Pa.—Because a three-foot snake crawled from a keg of beer after he and several friends had finished the liquid contents, John Biovetsky has signed the pledge and asserts he will sue a local brewer.

New York.—The rising cost of food has now extended to hot dog sandwiches and ice cream cones. That is one of the reasons why the A. D. T. messenger boys have called a meeting for tonight at No. 74 East Fourth Street to vote on a strike. With these necessities of life going up the boys believe they ought to have more money. Dissension broke out in their ranks, today, however, when some of the chiefs started a movement to postpone action until after the election.

Chicago.—Grieved because people no longer laughed at the antics which once amused the crowded heads of Europe Adolph Koppel, 79, who half a century ago was one of the noted comedians abroad, killed himself. His body was found early today in the little house which had been his home for twenty-five years. He had torn the chandelier from the ceiling and the flow of gas had asphyxiated him.

Halifax, N. S.—Fears that were felt for the British steamer East Point, on fire at sea, have been allayed by wireless news that the blaze is under control. The ship reported that no hlp is needed. Her position and distinction were not given.

Editor Brisbane Expanding.

Arthur Brisbane, the writer of editorials for the New York American and Journal, was a guest for a while this summer at the Grand Hotel. He is contemplating purchasing the Fred Ramp place on the Dry Brook road for a summer home in the mountains. He has offered to exchange $40,000 farm in New Jersey for it, paying boot.—Pine Hill Sentinel.

WHAT HAS BECOME OF ALBERT JOST?

New Paltz Farmer is Causing Anxiety to His Mother in Germany, Who Would Like to Hear From Him.

Some ten or twelve years ago, Albert Jost, who came from Alsheim, Rheinhissen, Germany, bought a farm near New Paltz where he lived for a time. His mother who resides in Germany has not heard from him in some time and has written to friends here to find out if he is still living in Ulster county or has moved to some other locality.

There are people who will perhaps remember his living in New Paltz and any information regarding him which is sent to William Wolter, Ulster Park, N. Y., will be sent directly to his mother in Germany. An effort was made some time ago to locate him through the New York papers but without success.

Chicken Pie and Bazaar.

The second annual chicken pie supper and bazaar of the Ponckhockie Union Church will be held on Wednesday evening at the church on Abruyn street, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The fair opens at 4 o'clock that afternoon and supper will be served from 5 to 8 p. m. The ladies of the church have made an enviable reputation for themselves in cooking and a first class supper is assured all who attend. A number of fancy and useful articles will be on sale at the fair. The congregation and friends of the church should bear the date in mind and be present at that time.

The Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary.

The ladies of the Y. M. C. A. are reminded not to make any engagements for the afternoon of Friday, the 10th of November, as that is their regular meeting day, and also the day of membership roll call; to which the president, Mrs. Weeks, hopes that every member will respond. This meeting promises to be of unusual interest, as a special committee has arranged a very pleasing program, and the members will have the opportunity of meeting the new secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and wife, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Thornberry. Please remember the day, Friday, November 10, at 3 p. m.

A Busy Spot.

The chapel of the Wurts Street Baptist Church is a very busy spot, a score of ladies working hard to make their annual fair surpass all previous efforts. Tuesday and Wednesday of this week are the days set. On Tuesday from 5 to 8 o'clock a delicious chicken pie supper will be served and on Wednesday evening an interesting Hallowe'en entertainment entitled "In Witchcraft Days" will be rendered by the young folks. Many fancy and domestic articles, fine home made cakes, candy, etc., will be for sale. Decorations appropriate to the Hallowe'en season will be used.

The Military Club.

Kingston's newest organization, the Military Club, has been formally organized and the following officers elected: President, C. Ewel; vice president, W. V. Diamond; secretary, W. F. Tierney, and treasurer, D. B. Hinkley. The club has been formed for social purposes, and any young man in the city is eligible to join. Information may be obtained from any of the officers, or at Diamond's store, corner of Broadway and O'Neil street.

Sunday School Rally.

The Rev. Frank Wade Smith D. D. of New York city, superintendent of Sunday Schools for the New York area of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will speak in the Methodist Church at Eddyville Tuesday evening October 31. All are invited to come out and hear him as he is a master of Sunday school work and methods.

HOW EVERY WOMAN CAN BOOST CAUSE

Work of Ladies' Auxiliary of Kingston City Hospital Well Worth While and Entitled to Support—How to Become a Member.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Kingston City Hospital is the organization which stands behind the hospital board and testifies to the interest the women of Kingston have in one of the most useful institutions of the city. Its usefulness is so unimpeachable and its influence so widespread that it does without question concern every citizen of Ulster county.

There is one way that the women in the city can show themselves in accord with the work done in the hospital and can aid in its support, and that is by becoming members of the auxiliary. The nominal sum of one dollar a year which makes any woman a part of this organization is such a small amount that it can be no bar to membership, but it is only in the multiplicity of such memberships that the auxiliary finds its power. "The strength of the wolf is in the pack." If there were 300 members each paying a dollar a year there would be no need to raise money by any other means, for this amount would be sufficient to supply the things which the ladies of the auxiliary make it their business to provide for the institution.

They buy the blankets, sheets, pillow cases, towels and counterpanes, also the night robes and lounging robes used in the wards, and sometimes clothing for the patients who are not able to purchase such things for themselves. They give out the sewing of such articles to worthy women who need the work and occasionally provide a complete outfit for a baby.

No money from the auxiliary funds is ever given toward the running expenses of the hospital nor to its support. Supplies needed by the superintendent are bought by the purchasing committee and turned over to the superintendent for her approval.

In addition to this practical work, the auxiliary interests itself in everything connected with the hospital and assists in raising money for particular purposes. For example, when the Butterfly Ball was given last winter, the ladies of the auxiliary stood behind the entertainment, and by their personal efforts made it the unqualified success that it was.

It must be understood that the money raised by the Butterfly Ball was not for the benefit of the auxiliary, and not one cent of it was turned into their fund. That money was for the building fund of the hospital and was so accounted for in the recent report of the treasurer published after the annual meeting.

It may surprise Kingston people to be told that there has been no money raised by the auxiliary for its own fund since the opera "Mikado" was put on by Dr. Chandler in the winter of 1911. The amount raised at that time ($1,500) has served to keep the organization on its feet, and the annual report of the auxiliary treasurer shows a modest sum still left from this "Mikado" money. If this is now augmented by a generous influx of new members, the auxiliary will be able to lay in its fall supplies for the hospital without the raising of additional funds.

Women of Kingston, a $1 bill sent with your name to Mrs. C. E. Hasbrouck constitutes you a member and pays up your dues for one year in advance. The new building is nearing completion, its opening will be one of the events of the winter, the furnishing of these new rooms will interest every woman in the city, and the equipment will be one of which Kingston may well be proud.

You can give this tremendous thing your personal support by coming in now. Then when the new addition is opened to the public by a big reception, every member of the auxiliary will feel that she is a hostess for the occasion, and that the beautiful new hospital is not the city's but her own to point to with pride.

The present officers of the organization, just elected for the term of one year, are president, Mrs. George Chandler; first vice president, Mrs. Thomas J. Hickey; second vice president, Mrs. G. D. B. Hasbrouck; secretary, Mrs. Charles Tappen; treasurer, Mrs. C. E. Hasbrouck; chairman of purchasing committee, Mrs. James E. Low.

"SUFFS" TO CONFER.

Executive Committee to Meet in Kingston on Wednesday.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Ulster County Woman Suffrage Party has been called for Wednesday, November 1st at 2 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. M. J. Michael, 44 Maiden Lane, Kingston. The object of the meeting is to report on work done this year and to discuss plans for the coming campaign, as re-submission is now certain. Mrs. Gordon Norrie of Staatsburg, the chairman of the district will preside.

In the evening at 8 o'clock, an open meeting of the Kingston City Committee, of which Mrs. John W. Soaring is chairman, will take place in the home of Mrs. Michael, and features of the canvassing that is being done among the women of the city will be given. The new voting numbers who have recently come into the club are especially urged to be present as important matters relating to the campaign will be considered.

SUBMARINE SINKS BRITISH TRANSPORT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 30.—American Consul Frost at Queenstown today reported to the state department that the British steamer Marina, sunk by a submarine, by shell fire, without warning, was in the transport service of the British government. He said there were Americans supposed to be among the crew.

His complete report follows:

"Have provisional information the Thompson line horse transport Marina of Glasgow, sunk by submarine gunfire without warning 3 p. m., October 28, 100 miles west of Cape Clear. Thirty-four of crew rescued thus far out of total of 104. Boats one and five missing. Crew said to be composed of British and Americans. Survivors at Cook Haven."

The vessel being a transport, this government will take no action.

GAS METER THIEF STILL AT WORK

Kingston's gas meter thief is still at work about town, and the latest robbery reported was that of Sunday afternoon when the residence of Isaac Farber at No. 17 Ann street was entered and the quarter gas meter robbed. This latest robbery to be reported to the police is one of the boldest of a series of similar crimes. The thief approached the house, and the fact that there was a large number of residents about did not phaze him the least. He was accosted by Mr. Farber to whom the thief showed a badge and stated he was an inspector. He was shown where the meter was located and when left alone proceeded to strip it of the quarters it obtained. The meter was one used by a family named Gordon who reside in the same house. As far as known this is the first time the thief has been seen. In every other case reported to the police no stranger was seen near the meters robbed. Residents of the city should be careful how they allow strangers in the house to make inspections of any sort. If in doubt about a stranger's business it would pay to call up the company he says he represents and ascertain if he is making false representations or not.

LIFE BOATS SHELLED BY SUBMARINE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 30.—The German submarine warfare brought up a dangerous situation this afternoon for the first time since the sinking of the Sussex became a closed incident. A re-opening of the entire submarine controversy and continued friendly relations between the United States and Germany are threatened.

Secretary of State Lansing this afternoon took steps to obtain an explanation from the German government of the shelling by a German submarine of the Furness freighter Rowanmore on Oct. 26. Cables were forwarded to the American embassy in Berlin and to Ambassador Page in London asking "all available information" concerning the attack.

The official report from Consul Frost at Queenstown stated the crew of the Rowanmore, including 7 Americans, was shelled when in lifeboats after they had surrrendered the freighter and cleared from her.

No effort was made in official circles this afternoon to view the report with anything except alarm. The facts, is not disproved, show a clear violation of international law as interpreted by this government in the past.

Secretary of State Lansing declined this afternoon to give an opinion based on Consul Frost's report. Officials said no decision would be formed until complete official information had been received from the German and the British governments.

The sinking of the British steamer Marina, with American members of her crew, is not causing uneasiness, because of the fact that the vessel was in transport service of the British government. This government has held that submarines are within their rights in sinking enemy transports without warning, and that Americans shipping on such vessels go at their own peril.

Smith Estate Buys Lot.

The property located on the corner of Broadway and West Chestnut street which was sold this morning at 11 o'clock at mortgage foreclosure sale by Philip Elting, referee, was bid in by F. E. W. Darrow who represented the plaintiff, for the sum of $1,000. The foreclosure proceedings were brought by Laura N. Smith, as executrix, and M. Linn Bruce and John T. Harwood, as executors of the will of George J. Smith, against Ada J. Miller, Charles E. S. Thorne and Minnie H. P. Thorne, his wife, defendants. The lot is a part of the William Hutton homestead property and has a frontage of 96 feet on West Chestnut street and 242 feet along Broadway. The lot runs from Broadway along Chestnut street to the lands of Amos Van Etten. There are no buildings on the property sold.

The meeting opened with the singing of "All Hail the Power of Jesus's Name," after which the president led in opening prayer. Following this was the responsive reading found in the fifty-first chapter of Isaiah. After the singing of the hymn "Whosoever Will," different readings were given, all bearing on the work in the Kentucky Mountains. Mr. Dangremond read a most interesting letter from the field. Miss Elizabeth Krom gave a reading entitled "The Children of the Mountains," and Mrs. J. M. Barnhart read an article in connection with the medical work. After these readings the roll was called, all the members responding with a verse of Scripture. The business was then brought up before the meeting. It was then decided upon to have a missionary supper. The committee was appointed to take charge of this matter. The meeting closed with the singing of "I Need Thee Every Hour," followed by the Lord's Prayer repeated in concert. The subject for the next meeting is Indian Work. Any member who finds any interesting article on this subject will please bear this meeting in mind and hand such article to the president so that it may be given out and read in the meeting.

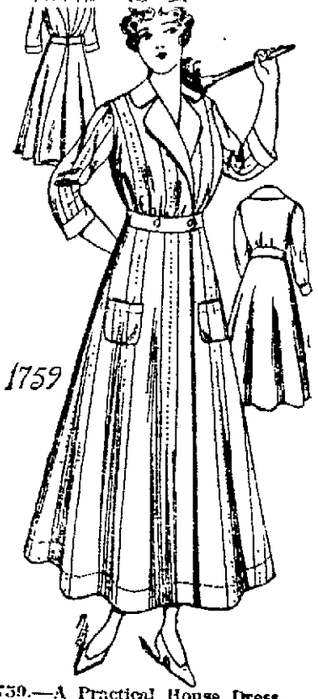
OUR DAILY PATTERN.



1759.—A Practical House Dress.

Percale, gingham, chambray, serge, challie and flannelette are popular materials for this style. The fronts are reversible. They are faced in reverse style to meet the rolled collar. The sleeve may be finished with a band cuff or in loose effect with a facing. The skirt is a 3-piece model, joined to the waist under a belt, and has smart pockets over the fronts. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 7 yards of 36 inch material for a 36 inch size. The skirt measures about 3¼ yards at the lower edge.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

AUTUMN GAME.

Game and wild fowl furnish a pleasant change in the meat diet. Although game is not a regular visitor in the average home, it is the wise housewife who informs herself on the best way to prepare it, for no one appreciates well cooked game like the hunter himself.

Game is usually lacking in fat, is short fibered and easy of digestion. The well fattened fowl lacks the flavor of the delicate game birds. The fishy flavor of wild duck or birds may be removed by parboiling with a little onion in the water. Usually the meat of game birds is improved by hanging until it has developed flavor and become more tender; this does not render it less wholesome if it is not too high, that is, hung too long.

Sidney Smith pronounced it a wickedness to serve roast game drenched in sauce.

Old game should not be broiled or roasted, but there are many delightful ways of using it in stews, pot pies, casseroled or fricasseed.

Game birds should be served with thin slices of salt pork or bacon, as the meat is otherwise too dry. In roasting slices of pork should be placed over them or wrapped around them. They are usually served on toast.

Roasted Quail.—Take six fat, fresh and tender quail. Pick, draw and singe and wipe with a damp cloth inside and out. Butter the inside and season lightly with salt and pepper. Truss and bind with a thin slice of pork or fat bacon. Put a tablespoonful of butter in a roasting pan, put in the quail and roast in a hot oven 20 minutes. Put six slices of buttered toast in a hot platter, lay a bird on each; add half a tablespoonful of butter, a little boiling water, and the juice of a lemon to the gravy in the pan; cook three minutes stirring well, strain, set back on the stove to cook two minutes longer, then pour evenly over the breasts of the birds so that it will soak the toast. Garnish with slices of lemon and watercress. Serve with green-grape jelly.

FRANK GOTCH RETIRES

Champion Wrestler Gives Reasons for Quitting Mat.

Does Not Believe He Is as Good as He Was Half Dozen Years Ago—Will Stay on Farm and Enjoy Company of Family.

"I have retired from the mat," says Frank Gotch, the world's champion wrestler, "not because I do not think I am capable of defeating them all, but because I do not think I am quite as good as I was, say half a dozen years ago. I am thirty-eight years old, and time will tell, sooner or later. I think it would be later for me, but, just the same, I do not want my friends to back me with their money, believing that I am better than I was ten years ago. I am not better. I may not be as good.

Will Enjoy Life.

"I never dodged a match and I gave them all opportunities to win my championship title and so my retirement will not merit nor will it deserve criticism. The retirement is made at no small sacrifice, for under an agreement with a moving picture company I was to receive $85,000 for two more matches. I will not wrestle again. I have enough money. I want to stay on my farm and enjoy the company of my wife and family."

The champion wrestler stated that strength, endurance, speed and skill were essentials to a wrestler who is successful. "Mental work is also necessary for any great success in the game," Gotch said. "One must think constantly and think quickly. One should have his moves figured out far in advance of what one is actually attempting. One must, in other words, have system and it took me years of patience and study to accomplish my methods.

Brains and Brawn.

"In training, also, it's brains over brawn. The man who trains with his brain can get more good out of twirling a match than an athlete can get out of a five-pound dumb-bell who does not use his brain. It's the systematic and not the mechanical training that counts. The man who shovels dirt in the street eight hours daily is mechanical. The trouble with many wrestlers is that they are mechanical. They do not use their brains in training.

"When I run I watch every step. I figure just where I shall place my foot. That makes me think. And it also makes every muscle employed the slave of my mind. Try to move a muscle in your arm without moving the limb. You can't? That is because your brain is not master of your muscles. There isn't a muscle in my body that I can't move at the command of my brain. It is because I think as I train. Wrestling is an all-around developer of muscles, and as such it does not leave a man weak at any one point."

TENNIS, GOLF AND FOOTBALL

Former Originated in Ball Games of Greeks and Romans—Latter Was Rage With Youths.

Tennis is, perhaps, the oldest of modern games. It is said to have originated in the ball games of the Greeks and Romans. The racket was introduced during the fifteenth century in France, where the game was very popular, and imported into England about the same time.

Of the origin of cricket we know but little, though it was possibly identical with the club ball of the fourteenth century, and was first called "handyn and handoute."

Bowling greens and alleys were once plentiful in London, and Henry VIII made an alley at Whitehall. The earliest trace of the game appears in an old print of about six centuries ago.

Golf, or "goff," seems to have made its first appearance in the bandy ball of Elizabeth's reign, which was played with a club tipped with horn. Prince Henry, the son of James I, occasionally played at this game, which was very popular among the young noblemen of his day.

Football became such a rage with the London youths of the fourteenth century that a law was passed to prohibit it being played, as archery—then an important branch of education—was becoming thoroughly neglected.

Pipe Wood.

French brier is the wood most used for making pipes. Little of this wood is now coming to this country, and substitutes for it are being sought for. Of these mountain laurel is considered the best. Other woods suggested are apple wood, red gum, ebony and birch.

KEN SPRAGUE
MUNITIONS WORKER AND FOOTBALL STAR.

Ken Sprague, center of the Brown University eleven, just naturally takes to hazardous occupations. When he isn't going to college and footballing for Brown, he employs his spare time making ammunition in a plant at Erie, Pa., where his home is.

Sprague played center for Brown last season in both the Yale and Harvard games. He weighs 190 pounds and doesn't mind how hard the tussel is.

Hoping for the Best.

A Chicago music and art critic who is suing for divorce makes the prediction that "fifty years hence the men of this country and the world will have to arise and band themselves together to maintain their own rights." We trust that they will attack no female prime minister, blow up no railway stations, and respect monuments and art collections.—New York Sun.

Durability of Sycamore.

One of the most durable woods is sycamore. A statue made from it, now in the museum of Gizeh, at Cairo, is believed to be nearly six thousand years old. It is entirely sound and natural in appearance.

You have a direct interest in State Conservation

Upon the proper conservation and protection from fire of the forests of the Catskills and Adirondack Mountains depends the continuance of the water supply that turns the wheels of the State's industries. You have a direct interest, therefore, in the work that your State Conservation Commission has accomplished during the past two years.

It has made an enviable record—a record you can be proud of. It has contributed its fair share of the quiet victories for good government for which the present administration, under the leadership of Governor Charles S. Whitman, has been so warmly commended.

How the Organization of the Commission was Improved

The old, expensive Commission, consisting of three commissioners at $10,000 a year each and three deputies at $3,500 a year each, with salaries aggregating $40,500 a year, had made but little progress because of lack of agreement among themselves. Their failure to accomplish a reasonable amount of constructive work, for this reason, was a matter of record in the reports of the Commission.

One of the first moves of the new administration, therefore, was to centralize the power and responsibility in one commissioner at $8,000 a year and one deputy at $6,000 a year—a saving in administrative salaries alone of $26,500 a year.

Governor Whitman appointed as commissioner, an administrative expert and life-long student of forestry conditions, and as deputy commissioner a resident of the Adirondack section, having first hand knowledge of the problem of conservation.

Many useless employees were stricken from the payrolls and ability and efficiency are now required for all appointments and promotions.

A few of the Results Accomplished

In the division of Lands and Forests a complete system of fire protection was worked out during the first year for an area of more than FOUR MILLION ACRES. A system for State-wide forest fire prevention was adopted and is now being rapidly put into effect.

The Legislature has provided for a referendum in November, to authorize a bond issue of ten million dollars to save important forest sections from denudation.

The reforestration work has been doubled. Five million trees raised in State nurseries are being planted this year upon State land and five million trees are being distributed for reforestration of waste or denuded private land.

Funds were provided to fight the dangerous white pine blister-rust.

Out of 900 cases of illegal occupancy of State land all but 35 have been cleared and these 35 are now in process of settlement.

Efficient work has been done in connection with the development of the State fish hatcheries, in the conservation of water power and on the State Reservation at Saratoga Springs.

The Conservation Commission, like the other departments in your present State government has "made good." Its work takes its place with Reform in State Finances, Tax Reform, Civil Service Reform, the high character of appointments, and other big outstanding, up-building policies and accomplishments of the present administration.

It is in YOUR interest as a citizen who desires this high type of efficient, constructive government, to go to the polls and give this administration YOUR support.

KINGSTON, N. Y., OCT. 30, 1916.

Friday morning will furnish the only opportunity the citizens of Kingston and Ulster County will have in this campaign to hear Mr. Hughes. He should be greeted by the largest audience that can be crowded into the opera house. This is stated not merely for sentimental reasons due to the Republican candidate for President having been a frequent visitor to this section, his mother's birthplace, but more because of the fact that intelligent voters owe it to themselves to hear the issues of the campaign discussed by the candidate himself. Mr. Hughes has not been heard in a public address in Kingston since he was Governor, but the memory of his speeches is still fresh in the minds of those among the audiences then. That he is still the same forceful, logical speaker has been demonstrated this fall on a hundred platforms in nearly thirty states. A marked change of sentiment has greeted his appearance in the cities of his home State during the past fortnight and Kingston's reception should outdo them all. His welcome will not be limited to any class or party, but will include citizens of differing political beliefs and from all walks of life represented in the community. The date is Friday morning, the place is the opera house. It is up to Kingston to show what a loyal, patriotic community is capable of in the way of welcoming a candidate in whom are combined those qualities its citizens most admire.

The Chicago Daily News, which early for Woodrow Wilson's nomination for the Presidency in the Baltimore convention and supported him most vigorously in the campaign of 1912, has bolted. With its remaining hopes of Democratic party for carrying Illinois [illegible] disappointed hope that has been to Victor F. Lawson, the publisher of this influential Chicago newspaper, we find in the following from the News:

Mr. Wilson is a scholarly egotist who seems to allow his personal [illegible] to affect to no small degree his estimate of men and measures. His record is that of a reformer from his continued policy of [illegible]. The best thing [illegible] might be said for him is that he would not [illegible] President.

The News says Mr. Wilson cried "[illegible]" having been [illegible] declares [illegible] existing conditions [illegible] he has accomplished [illegible] remarkable feat in [illegible] the wall. [illegible] Democratic party of the nation [illegible] of its institutions [illegible] President Wilson for another term." Boards of American citizens will [illegible] a week from next Tuesday.

Attorney-General Egburt E. Woodbury is a candidate for re-election; hence his conduct of that important office is subject to the careful scrutiny of voters. As the State's chief law officer the Attorney-General is necessarily in close relation with every one of its departments, and broad knowledge of the workings of the numerous branches of the State government, sound judgment and legal experience are essential to a successful administration. All of these qualities Judge Woodbury possesses in ample measure. His knowledge is practical as well as theoretical. The experience he gained as a Member of Assembly and as Surrogate of his home county of Chautauqua has been of value in the present office, where his long connection with the State Tax Commission has likewise proved most useful in solving the legal phases of taxation problems constantly before the Attorney-General. In the Court of Claims, the State Industrial Commission, and as counsel to the different departments, Attorney-General Woodbury has been the means of saving hundreds of thousands of dollars to the taxpayers. In the prosecution of highway and other frauds, drafters have been compelled to disgorge large sums, which have been returned to the State treasury. The people of New York State recognize ability and integrity in public office and the consequent combination of these qualities presented by the official record of the Attorney General will win for him an overwhelming endorsement at the polls.

According to the Brooklyn Eagle, which is supporting Seabury for Governor, that eminent gentleman has "openly defied Borough President Pounds of Brooklyn to keep him from speaking on the steps of Borough Hall there." A permit to use the Borough Hall steps for political speeches has been refused, but according to The Eagle, Judge Seabury said at Buffalo Saturday night: "If the people of Brooklyn want to have a Wilson-Seabury meeting on the steps of the Brooklyn Borough Hall, I will speak whether the Republican Borough President Lewis H. Pounds issues a permit or not. If I am asked to speak from the steps of the Brooklyn Borough Hall, I shall do so, that is all." Such remarks might be expected from a man of less eminence and less culture. Service to the public and in the Court of Appeals does not appear to have improved Judge Seabury's temper in discriminating between official and partisan usage of public property. It is customary in America to secure permits from the proper authorities for political meetings in public parks or for any kind of public meeting held in public buildings or on public property. While the Borough Hall is dedicated to the use of the public, it is used for public business, and political meetings there are just as improper as they would be in our own city hall. It is true that our own city hall was used for political purposes but the voters three years ago expressed their opinion of such usage. There is no comparison, either, between political conventions and campaign meetings. Judge Seabury's petulance and his disregard for proprieties or properly constituted authority does not speak well for his official acts should he occupy the Governor's chair. We judge men's acts by the acts of their fellow men. Would Whitman act and talk as Seabury does? Would Hughes?

In another column The Freeman publishes a letter from Judge Clearwater relative to the proposed Constitutional amendment authorizing the enlargement of the Adirondack and Catskill forest preserve, which we commend to the attention of the voters of Ulster County regardless of their political affiliations. At the late Constitutional Convention the judge took so warm an interest in the protection and conservation of the natural resources of the State that when a vacancy occurred upon the Niagara Falls Commission the position was tendered to him by [illegible] without any solicitation upon his part. He accepted, and already has taken a high rank among the members of that body.

ULSTER PARK.

Ulster Park, Oct. 30.—The Willing Workers held their annual business meeting at the home of Mrs. E. F. Wheeler Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. S. Parsell; vice-president, Mrs. Clarence Cole; second vice-president, Mrs. Holt Winfield; third vice-president, Mrs. Harry Ellsworth; secretary, Mrs. E. H. Wheeler, re-elected; treasurer, Mrs. Henry Osborn. Following the meeting the hostess served dainty refreshments which were enjoyed by all.

Miss Catherine Terpening is spending the week end with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Terpening.

A number from this place attended the suffrage meeting at West Park.

The annual school exhibit of Ulster county was held at Odd Fellows' Hall this place, Friday, October 26. The vegetable exhibited was mangel beets. The first prize of five dollars was awarded to John Ferguson of New Paltz; second prize of three dollars was awarded to Van Aken of Port Ewen. Three prize of one dollar each to Helen Wells, Raymond Coutant and Roy Herring of Union Center.

Mr. Van Oostenbrugge [illegible], Horace, motored to Schenectady on Tuesday. Mr. Van Oostenbrugge returned Wednesday in company with Mr. and Mrs. Stanford and daughter, Catherine, who remained over Sunday.

Mrs. E. Schryver has returned home, after spending some time in Delmar.

The Rev. and Mrs. Van Oostenbrugge entertained their children last Saturday and Sunday in honor of their son, Horace, on his safe return from the Mexican border, where he served three months as corporal of squad 14, Co. E, 2nd Infantry, N. Y. State Guards. He was mustered out of the federal service on October 20. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bensman and children, Donald and Betty, of Schenectady; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Van Oostenbrugge of West Shrewsbury, John of New York city, and Horace of Schenectady. Mr. and Mrs. Gage and L. Stanford of Schenectady had [illegible] trouble on the way and were [illegible] their machine. Mrs. Stanford was the only member of the family absent.

Parent-Teachers' Association.

There will be an important meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association of School No. 4 in the school building, Tuesday, October 31st, at 8 p. m. Mrs. P. J. Gallagher of School No. 5, who was a federated delegate to the annual state convention will be present and read her report.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"I am afraid my son is too backward to enlist." "That is an excellent reason for bringing him to the front."—Baltimore American.

A Cincinnati paper says that our musical tastes have improved. Haven't the Hawaiian airs hit Cincinnati yet?—Buffalo Express.

"So you do not believe in divorce?" "I certainly do not." "My husband does." "But you see I am not your husband."—Houston Post.

Sympathetic Stranger—"Hullo! old chap—fallen in?" Unfortunate Angler (sarcastically)—"Well, you don't suppose this is perspiration, do you?"—Passing Show.

A New York medical journal thinks it all wrong for people to try to minimize their sleeping hours simply because Napoleon was suffered to sleep but little. In other words, the editor would impress some if his readers that they cannot become Napoleons simply by sitting up late.—Puck.

What Johnson Would Do.

Wilkins is an enthusiastic golfer, and when his friend Johnson met him coming away from the links, a day or two ago, he found Wilkins in a terrible frame of mind. "What happened, old fellow?" asked Johnson amiably.

"Everything's happened!" growled Wilkins. "It's enough to make one give up golf and go in for fishing. That ass, Fitznoodle, has been running all over the course, and actually crossed my tee just as I was about to make a lovely drive. What would you have done had you been in my place?"

Johnson is a smart man, and his retort was characteristic of him.

"Well," he replied, with a smile, "seeing that he crossed your 't,' I think I would have dotted his 'i.'"—All Around Magazine.

Not That Sort of Uncle.

In the second act of a certain play the curtain rises on an empty stage; then presently a meek-looking young man with a dust coat over his arm comes on and loudly calls: "Uncle! Uncle!"

According to the book of the play he should receive no answer, and, after a pause, should proceed with a monologe.

One night, however, a voice was heard from the gallery: "All right. I'm coming in a moment. How much do you want on it?"—Cleveland Leader.

Quite Enough.

"Please, sir," piped the tiny customer, whose head scarcely reached the counter, "father wants some oak varnish."

"How much does your father want, my little man?" inquired the smiling shopman.

"Father says you was to fill this," replied the little fellow, handing over a pint jar.

It was duly filled and handed back. "Father will pay you next Saturday," said the recipient casually. Then the face of the shopman grew dark.

"We don't give credit here," he said. "Gimme back the jar."

Meekly the small boy handed back the jar, which was emptied and returned with a scowl.

"Thank you, sir," he said. "Father said you'd be sure to leave enough round the sides for him to finish the job he wants to do, and you 'ave, sir."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

GOOD SHOWING BY K. H. S. STUDENTS

Results of Regents' Examinations Last Year Most Satisfactory Says Superintendent Michael's Report to Board of Education.

Returns from Albany show the complete result of Regents' examinations among high school pupils and the percentage is flattering:

A detailed statement of subjects and the number of pupils instructed, examined, claimed according to the marking of examination papers by the high school teaching force, and allowed by the Regents' department, was submitted to the board of education at its regular monthly meeting Friday night, as follows:

To the Board of Education.

Gentlemen:

At your July meeting I submitted in detail a report on the promotions in the public schools of this city for the first and second terms of the school year ending July 31 so far as the facts were available. On the date of that report the returns from the June regents examinations at the high school had not reached me from Albany. I therefore submit the following report of subjects for the June 1916 regents examinations. I wish to especially call your attention to the very low percentage of rejected papers in all subjects excepting commercial geography and the high percentage in that subject may be accounted for from the fact that the class was instructed by one of our modern language teachers who had no experience in marking commercial geography papers prior to the June examinations.

Owing to the prevalence of infantile paralysis in our city and in the surrounding country our schools were not opened until October 2. I with others had some doubt as to how this would affect our October attendance. It is therefore interesting to note that at the end of the month of September, 1915, we had a total registration by schools as follows:

School No. 1	97
School No. 2	351
School No. 3	315
School No. 4	331
School No. 5	452
School No. 6	368
School No. 7	436
School No. 8	404
High school	779
Total	3,533

On Thursday of this week the registration by schools was as follows:

School No. 1	96
School No. 2	307
School No. 3	319
School No. 4	317
School No. 5	488
School No 6	380
School No. 7	427
School No. 8	371
High school	738
Totals	3,443

We discover then that there is a falling off in attendance at schools Nos. 1, 2, 4, 7, 8 and the high school, and a gain at schools Nos. 3, 5 and 6. For all the schools the registration is smaller by 90 pupils at practically the end of the first month of school than it was last year for the month of September.

A PROGRAM OF ADVANCE.

Church Goals Adopted by the Albany Avenue Baptist Church.

Sunday was Five Year Program Sunday among the Baptist churches of the United States, and at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church the pastor, the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, preached at the morning service on the topic, "We Will Set Up Our Banners," taking the words of Psalm 20:5 as a text. The Five Year Program contemplates a strong and steady advance in all lines of church work, evangelistic, missionary, educational, social service, and devotional. Its motto is, "The Maximum for the Master." In line with this movement and as a co-operating church, a series of goals were adopted by an unanimous vote at the morning service. They were proposed by the Five Year Program Committee, and read by B. W. Healy, the church clerk, and are as follows:

1. At least fifty additions to our church membership every year.
2. One thousand dollars annually for missionary objects.
3. Every member a contributor to church expenses and to missions.
4. The encouragement of our young people to attend higher institutions of learning, and to fit themselves in every way for better Christian service.
5. At least one volunteer for the ministry or missionary service during the five year period.
6. Our members active in every form of social and community service, such as the Y. M. C. A., Industrial Home, Charities Aid Association, Bureau of Social Service, Laymen's Association, hospitals, temperance work, etc.
7. At least 25 per cent increase in attendance at our Sunday services, prayer meetings, Bible school and Christian Endeavor Society.
8. A greater emphasis upon prayer in the individual life, and some form of family worship in every home in our membership.

Senator Walton's Record.

Senator Charles W. Walton has made a record as a legislator who keeps "on the job" and can be depended upon to look after the interests of his constituents all the time. He is a young man of high standing, capable, courteous and obliging. This district is indeed fortunate in having such a representative at Albany, and there should be no question as to his return for another term by a largely increased majority.—The Tannersville Times.

Musical Information.

It may be so and it may not, but a Los Angeles student affirms it in an examination paper and here it is: "Beethoven discovered the sonata in four moves. Before this it was a sweet. He wrote many piano sonatas for the violin and they were called string quartets. When a piano sonata was for an orchestra it was called a symphony. The ninth piano sonata he wrote for voices to sing."

Where Bump Fell Down.

Willis—"Do you think a knowledge of the Bible is necessary for a business man nowadays?" Gillis—"Yes, indeed; ignorance of it cost Bump, the mail order man, a pretty penny last week. Some fellow copied a lot of names out of Chronicles and sold it to Bump as a mailing list and Bump sent out circulars of his new safety razor to half a hundred patriarchs of the Old Testament before he got wise."—Judge.

SCHOENECK WON AN UPHILL FIGHT

LEARNED BLACKSMITH TRADE

Advanced to Front Rank of Bar and Became Mayor of Syracuse—Public Service Characterized by Sound Business Judgment and Rugged Honesty.

The rise of Lieutenant Governor Edward Schoeneck to a powerful position in the state Legislature, to the executive chair of one of the state's largest cities and finally to his present office in the state government furnishes a striking example and at the same time a strong incentive to the ambitious young man struggling under the handicap of poverty.

One of the breadwinners of a large family as a newsboy at the age of 10, doing a man's work in a blacksmith shop at the age of 14, active in the practice of law and an important figure in the New York state Assembly at 27, mayor of Syracuse at 35 and lieutenant governor at 39, Mr. Schoeneck's career shows the success which rewards a clean, healthy mind, a strong body, a head full of brains and American pluck.

Mr. Schoeneck's parents were among the early settlers of Syracuse and, although poor, were of the substantial class that helped to build up that thriving city. His father, Henry Schoeneck, left the blacksmith trade to serve his country in the Civil War. Peace restored, he again took up his leather apron in his little shop located at the dry dock on the Erie canal, now very near the geographical center of Syracuse. Ever since the war Mr. Schoeneck's family has been prominent in G. A. R., Sons of Veterans and Relief Corps circles.

Lieutenant Governor Edward Schoeneck.

Gaining a common school education until the age of 10, young Schoeneck, called upon to assist in the support of a large family, sold newspapers on the streets of Syracuse. His route took him to the Court house, and there an association with leading lawyers and glimpses of court rooms fired an ambition to become a lawyer. He entered high school and prepared for the study of law, but at the age of 14 the circumstances of his parents seriously threatened his plans. Confronted with these conditions, the boy found it necessary to enter his father's shop, and there he mastered the trade. For ten years he worked before the anvil, spending his nights in study, often in the blacksmith shop, and mastering the languages and mathematics and gaining his first knowledge of law.

Enters Law School.

Realizing that, in leaving the shop for the law school, he would have to be self-supporting, he took a course of stenography at night school. When 23 years of age, the time he had fixed upon for entering law school, his father died and he was compelled to remain another year at his trade in order to help his brothers.

It was not until 1901 that Mr. Schoeneck, then employed as stenographer by a leading Syracuse law firm, was able to enter the college of law at the University of Syracuse. Two years later he was graduated and at once entered upon the practice of law, becoming in the same year a member of the firm of White, Bond and Schoeneck.

Even before this Mr. Schoeneck had taken his first plunge into politics. Recognized as a forceful character and popular in the section of the city where he had grown to young manhood, he was elected to the Onondaga county board of supervisors in 1901. The same year he began the practice of law he was selected by the Republicans of the Second Onondaga district as their candidate for the Assembly.

Mr. Schoeneck served four terms in the Assembly, where his record shows sound judgment in the consideration of important legislation and rugged honesty. He drafted the original Corrupt Practices act and was looked upon as an authority on constitutional questions.

COMPTROLLER TRAVIS'S DAUGHTER TO BE A FOREIGN MISSIONARY

She Will Leave For Egypt Next December.

Mrs. Wendell Cleland, daughter of State Comptroller Eugene M. Travis, and her husband will leave this country for Egypt in December to engage in educational missionary work

Mrs. Cleland was born in Brooklyn, where she attended grammar and high schools. She graduated from Mount Holyoke College in 1910, later doing post-graduate work at Columbia University, from which institution she received the degree of Master of Arts in 1912. Until her marriage to Mr. Cleland, who is a United Presbyterian, she was very active in the work of the Epworth League and Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which she has been a member since childhood, attaining an enviable reputation as an organizer and platform speaker. She was also very active in the Camp Fire Girls' movement.

Mr. Cleland will become Professor of English in Cairo University which is being established under an Inter denominational Board of Trustees, whose secretary is Mr. George Innes, of Philadelphia, Pa., formerly secretary of the United Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. Application for a charter has been made to the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York.

Mrs. Wendell Cleland, daughter of State Comptroller Eugene M. Travis.

Speaking to a representative of the American Press Association of the work to which Mr. and Mrs. Cleland are going, Mr. Innes said:

"The rapid decline of Turkey's power, together with the revolt of the Sheriff of Mecca, shows the present to be a strategic moment for a drive of the forces of the Christian Church. The school is one of our best weapons, as Moslems everywhere are seeking release from the superstition and ignorance which hold ninety-five per cent of them in a firm grip. In all North Africa and Western Asia, with a population as great as that of the States east of the Mississippi River, there is no Christian or modern university. Our purpose is to give to the people of the Moslem world Christian leaders, who will reconstruct entirely their society along Christian lines and reclaim for Christ these lands in which He was born and the early Christian Church was nurtured. It is the opportunity of a lifetime for the man who wants to be of the greatest possible use."

Bid for Assistance.

"Do you realize, young man, that in marrying my daughter you will assume great responsibilities?" asked her father. "Yes, sir," answered the up-to-date young man. "In fact, I've been so deeply impressed by the weight of my future responsibilities that I thought perhaps your—er—parental solicitude would prompt you to make some arrangement which would insure your daughter's being supported in the style to which she has been accustomed."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Japanese Devil-Fish.

In Japan devil-fish weighing up to 200 pounds are sometimes caught. These fish are amphibious; they are often seen wobbling on their tentacles like giant spiders, in search of patches of sweet potatoes. The natives kill them with clubs. In the water they are caught in jars lowered to the bottom, which the octopus enters, thinking them a good retreat from which to catch his food.

West Point Examinations.

Candidates for West Point are examined in algebra, including quadratic equations, progressions and plane geometry; English grammar, composition and literature; descriptive and physical geography, and general and United States history. No rejected candidate shall be re-examined, except upon recommendation of the academic board.

GRIDIRON ELEVENS ARE QUICKLY MADE

USING BUCKING MACHINE AT HARVARD

When thousands of people are thrilled by the struggle of two college football teams they gather from the intricate moves and counter-moves and from the high example of team play that the contestants have given an unusual amount of their time to practice in order to reach this advanced state of development. Not only do the crowds which view the intercollegiate contests reach this conclusion, but those who attack intercollegiate sport and who seek to reform it claim that one of its grandest problems is to reduce the great amount of time utilized in the practice of teams for games.

A study of the facts brings to light the surprising information that college athletic teams, especially football elevens, which are more highly perfected than other intercollegiate athletic organizations, are developed in considerably less time than is generally supposed. And in some instances not more than six hours a week is given over to practice.

All of this is a result of scientific management on the part of coaches and trainers. It has been found, where it has been necessary, that splendid teams are produced in a minimum amount of time, especially where preliminary training has taken place in the early fall. The Army, especially, and the Navy, have little time to give to athletic sports at the two service academies, which is the explanation given by their athletic authorities for the failure of these two teams to show the highly perfected team play that the big college elevens master. Nevertheless, in 1913, because Prichard and Merillatt had spent some time during the summer in forward passing and receiving, that game brought to light the fact that in spite of only six hours a week given to football practice, after the United States Military academy opened its doors in the fall until the game was played, its team showed the highest development of the forward pass and of team play of any college eleven in the United States up to that time.

AGREE ON CO-SLOGAN

Hugh Jennings, manager of the Detroit baseball club, is a great football enthusiast. Fielding H. Yost, coach of the Michigan football squad, is a keen baseball fan. Each leader respects the prowess and opinions of the other and both are agreed that the first sentence in the baseball book should be first in the football calendar. Their co-slogan is, "The best defense is a strong offense." Jennings often has termed Cobb, Crawford and Veach the best pitching staff in the league.

FUMBLE IN FOOTBALL GAME

Arthur Poe, Famous End on Former Princeton Teams, Would Inflict Distance Penalty.

From Arthur Poe, the famous end on the Princeton teams of 1898 and 1899, comes a suggestion that a fumble in football should not result in the loss of the ball, but should incur a distance penalty only. This is a radical suggestion, but not one to be dismissed without careful consideration.

Poe, it will be recalled, defeated Yale in 1898 by getting the ball out of a Yale halfback's arms just as the latter was scoring on Princeton, whereupon Poe ran the entire length of the field for the winning touchdown.

C. C. Mahan of Princeton Tackling Dummy.

Hence Poe's suggestion carries with it the personal prestige of a great player who won a great game as the result of a technical fumble.

Poe contends that the entire work of a year, coaches, councils during the winter, individual practice of the players in spring and summer and combined coaching and practice throughout an entire fall should not be nullified by a fumble which can happen at any time to the very best of players, has been designated by the most reprehensible word in football, "fluke," carrying satisfaction to a winning team but not credit.

Poe's suggestion is that a fumble be penalized by the loss of 15 yards, or if made within one's 15-yard line, by half the distance to the goal line, the fumbler's side still to retain possession of the ball. This in general is the suggestion. It, of course, involves details, a definition of a fumble, etc., but all of easy solution.

SAVED BY A WOMAN

An Episode of the Peninsular War

By ALAN HINSDALE

When the Duke of Wellington was fighting the French in Spain in 1808 to 1814, gaining one victory after another, naturally the Spanish people were in an unsettled condition. In all countries when there is war there are persons who pretend to belong to one side or the other—sometimes both sides—either doing secret service or partisan work or engaged in robbery.

Alfonso Fernandez, a youngster of twenty-three, hated both the French and the English, expecting that, whichever conquered, Spain would have a foreign yoke about her neck. Fernandez, who commanded a small body of mounted men, would harass either side alike. Sometimes he would attack a supply train of the British, then the very next day, when they were pursuing the French after one of their many victories, he would be found in the van of the English ranks sabering those Frenchmen who were unable to keep up with their retreating companies.

Fernandez was the son of a Spanish grandee and highly educated. One day he was riding at the head of his men through a rural district not far from Talavera, when screams were heard in advance. Fernandez put spurs to his horse and, followed by his troops, rode around a bend in the road through trees that obscured his vision, and, emerging into the open, came to a gentleman's country place that was being looted by stragglers from the French army.

Dashing through the gateway and up to the house the Spaniards attacked the marauders and drove them off. Fernandez himself found a young lady struggling with a French grenadier and cut him down.

Naturally those occupying the place were very grateful for their deliverance, and Donna Maria Matellida's heart went out to her preserver. The troop encamped, or, rather, bivouacked on the grounds of her home and received everything they needed that the place afforded. For some time they made it a base of their operations, striking out in different directions, always returning after a foray. But their absences were neither so frequent nor so long as they had been, for the leader spent much time dallying with Donna Maria.

Nevertheless the harassing Fernandez gave the French about this time was sufficient to excite the ire of Colonel Pierre Villiers, who vowed that if he could catch the "bandits," as he preferred to call them, [illegible] every one of them. The colonel sent out a scout after one of Fernandez's attacks on a French outpost to follow him at a distance and discover his lair. The scout returned with the information that Fernandez himself spent much time at the Matellinas, but as for his troop they had no stopping place.

The more time Fernandez and Donna Maria spent together the more deeply they fell in love with each other and the more reckless Fernandez became in exposing himself to attack from his enemies. But a woman readily scents danger to the man she loves. The lady frequently expressed disapprobation at her lover remaining with her when his men were away, pointing out how easy it would be for either the French or the English to take him while he was alone. But whenever he consented to leave her she was sure to ask him to take the risk just once more.

Meanwhile Fernandez's band, under the leadership of his lieutenant, was harassing the French night and day. It being known what force was making all the trouble and it not being known that Fernandez himself was dallying with his beloved, he incurred all the obloquy of these attacks.

Colonel Villiers, having learned that Fernandez visited a certain place, made up his mind to take him there. He sent one or two expeditions there, but at the time Fernandez was away with his troop. The Frenchman, not wishing to frighten the bird away, concealed the fact that they were after him. But they did not deceive Donna Maria.

Colonel Villiers, eager to take the man who was annoying him, finally put a watch on the house Fernandez frequented and, one evening when it was reported that the Spaniard was there, concluded to go in person to capture him. Putting himself at the head of a dozen men—Fernandez's men were not with him—the colonel led them to the house where the lovers were dallying, surrounded it with his men, then closed in upon the premises.

Fernandez and Maria were sitting on a bench in the flower garden when suddenly they heard steps approaching, accompanied by the jingle of spurs. Both jumped to their feet and retreated to the house, screened on the way by high growing plants common to tropical countries, and closed a door behind them without having been seen. Discerning from a window the forms of men without, the lovers suspected that Fernandez was in danger, and Maria at once began to think of a place to hide him, for escape was obviously impossible. She led him upstairs to a bedchamber and put him in a closet. Fernandez had never been beyond the ground floor of the house and did not know in whose apartment he had been hidden. The closet door was locked, and he was in the dark. It was not long before the bedroom door was violently thrown open and there was a tread of boots on the floor.

"What means this intrusion?" he heard spoken in a voice which he recognized as that of Villiers.

"Pardon, senorita," said a man's voice, "but there is a man in this house who is wanted. We must find him."

"In a lady's chamber?"

"I regret to disturb you."

"You mean that you regret to insult me."

"That is not intended."

"You come into my room when I am in bed and yet you do not intend to insult me?"

"God forbid that I, a French soldier, should insult a woman."

"Will you take the word of a lady?"

"Certainly."

"Well, then I am an unmarried woman. Is it not an insult for you to look for a man in a maiden's bedroom?"

"Certainly, senorita, provided the man is not some near relative."

"There is no near relative of mine in this house. My father is at the capital. I have no brother. Would that I had to protect me from this indignity!"

This evidently had a marked effect on the man, for after a humble apology he closed the door, and all was still. In a few moments the closet door was opened, and Maria, in a double gown, stood before her lover.

"Get into the bed," she said, "and I will take your place in the closet. When they do not find you in other parts of the house they will return and search this room."

As he stepped out of the closet she was about to go in when steps were again heard without. Maria took the key from the outside of the closet door and put it on the inside, but she did not close the door.

"Have you your pistol?" she asked hurriedly.

"Two of them."

"Well, be guided by what I say to any one who comes to the room."

Fernandez got into the bed with his clothes on and covered himself up. Maria had blown out the candles in the room, and it was dark. She stood within the closet, the door open and her hand on the knob.

Colonel Villiers had sent his men to search the house, and when the man who had failed to search Donna Maria's room returned and reported that he had been prevented from doing so by motives of delicacy for a woman the colonel started at once to make the search himself. But the colonel was a gentleman of France, and the work before him was not to his taste. Going to Maria's bedroom, he knocked at the door.

"Who's there?" asked Maria.

"Pardon me, senorita, but I must search your room. I am sorry to"—

"I give you warning," interrupted Maria, "that I will not suffer insult a second time. I have armed myself, and whoever desecrates the privacy of my chamber shall receive a bullet for doing so."

The colonel, though he disliked to intrude upon a woman forcibly, was not afraid of one who opposed him in a masculine way. He opened the door and entered. His figure was plain enough to one in the room, but he could see nothing. He had taken two steps beyond the lintel when a pistol cracked from the bed and he fell in a heap on the floor.

Quick, Change with me!" cried Maria as she darted from the closet to the bed. As Fernandez passed her she seized a pistol from him and hurried into bed. Fernandez took position in the closet. The exchange had scarcely been made when the colonel's men, having heard the shot, appeared before the chamber door and saw their commander lying in the opening.

"Carry him away," said Maria from the bed. "If any of you approach me I will serve you as I served him."

The men drew back at this. But in another moment one of them asked whether, if they attended to the colonel, they would have to do so under fire.

"So long as you attend to him," was the reply, "you are safe. All I ask of you is to respect me."

At this one of them raised Villiers, who had a bullet in his lung, and, seeing that he was alive, took him up and carried him into another room. Maria called to Fernandez:

"Now is your chance. The men have lost their leader and are busy ministering to him. Go before they again turn to continue the search for you."

"Rather you go before they return for their revenge. I will join you."

"What! You, to whom the church has not united me?"

"We will go to a priest."

"Go, then; I will follow you."

In another moment Fernandez was on a trellis without the window, and Maria followed him. Reaching the ground, they ran among the plants till they made an exit from the place.

A short distance from their starting point was a chapel. On reaching it Fernandez rapped on the door of the priest's house beside it.

"Father," he said when the priest opened the door, "I desire to be united in the holy bonds of matrimony to this woman."

The pair were admitted and taken to the chapel. There they were married in haste and continued their flight. But there was no necessity for haste. Those they had left behind were too much engaged with their colonel to follow them. They made good their escape, and the next seen of them they were in Madrid.

When Spain was relieved from the foreign yoke imposed upon her by the great Napoleon Fernandez became prominent in the cortes.

Aladdin's Lamp Not In It With the Camera

Here Is a Trio of "Movie Girls" In "The Birth of a Nation" Whose Combined Salaries Run Up to Considerably Over $100,000 a Year and None Is Out of Her Teens.

BEFORE the moving pictures made the Arabian nights look tame this might have seemed a fairy story. At present it is just a reporter's notebook sketch of actual events, and there is a soulful sound of money in it.

Think of three girls still in their teens who are piling up annual incomes of over $[illegible] in the aggregate. The girls are Lillian Gish, Mae Marsh and Miriam Cooper, who play the feminine leads in D. W. Griffith's epoch making spectacle, "The Birth of a Nation."

Griffith understands the force of contrast in art as well as every other detail of this fascinating form of expression which he has made famous. In the three youthful stars of his masterpiece he has the satisfaction of seeing his work carried out triumphantly by three girls who have been trained under his guiding direction. Mae Marsh has that elfin and elusive quality which her Irish ancestry bestowed upon her. Griffith brings it out in striking effectiveness in his world famous work. Miss Marsh is red headed and clever far beyond the reach of her eighteen years.

Lillian Gish is pronounced the finest type of blond on the motion picture screen in America. She has been in the movies now for several years, beginning under Griffith's direction when a mere schoolgirl. She has played a world of parts and is known as well as Miss Marsh, who is beloved of millions as the Maude Adams of the motion pictures.

These two girls between them earn over $1,500 a week and have contracts with the big producing firms in filmland, which means they earn these salaries for fifty-two weeks in every year.

Miriam Cooper is the newest member of the trio and has only been in pictures about a year now. She has come forward steadily, and her work in "The Birth of a Nation" has enhanced her earning capacity. Miss Cooper is the southern type. She is willowy and languid and a pronounced brunette, making a complete contrast to the brilliant shock of Mae Marsh's red hair and the golden blonde of Lillian Gish.

BATTLE OF CHAPULTEPEC.

It Was the Last Serious Conflict of Our War With Mexico.

Chapultepec is the name of a hill three miles southwest of the City of Mexico, rising about fifty feet above the surrounding plain. On it the Aztec monarchs are said to have made their summer home, and here in 1785 Galvez, then viceroy of Mexico, began to erect an imposing fortified castle, which, though never completed, was used after 1822 as a military school. In the war between Mexico and the United States the hill was strongly fortified by the Mexicans and was the scene, on Sept. 12 and 13, 1847, of the last serious conflict of the war.

After the battle of Molino del Rey, Sept. 8, General Scott planned a movement against Chapultepec and on the 12th opened a heavy bombardment, under cover of which, on the following day, Generals Pillow and Quitman, supported respectively by Generals Worth and Smith, made gallant assaults, the former carrying the fortifications on the west and the latter on the southeast. The Mexicans, after making a stubborn defense, were driven in confusion back toward the city. On the 14th the Americans entered the City of Mexico, and the war was virtually ended.

During the three days (Sept. 12, 13 and 14) the Americans lost 863 in killed and wounded, General Pillow being among the latter, while the Mexicans are known to have lost a much larger number. On the side of the Americans about 7,300 men were engaged and about 4,000 on the Mexican side.

It is far better to be innocent than penitent, to prevent the malady than invent the remedy.—Secker.

INSECT INVENTORS.

Clever Things Done by Spiders, Bees, Wasps and Ants.

"The best commentary perhaps on such a sentence as 'The inventor is just a clairvoyant who translates his forecastings to castings' is that among our greatest inventors are the insects," writes James A. Ford in America. "As a warning reflection on human cleverness these insect inventors should not be forgotten. The wasp made excellent waterproof paper ages before man ever thought of doing so, and made it from wood pulp. We have been using that material only for a couple of generations.

"The bee and the wasp used hypodermic needles long before man ever thought of them, and the bee uses formic acid as an antiseptic to preserve its honey from fermentation.

"The spider made the first suspension bridge according to all the rules of the craft, and some spiders make excellent airships. One of them even makes a diving bell.

"The bee makes a wax that we cannot imitate.

"The silkworm is still the unrivaled manufacturer of silk.

"To these we might add the ant, which makes tunnels and subways; the mason bee, with its cement work, and the great peacock moth, which calls its kind from a distance by wireless telegraphy. But to complete the story we should have to reprint Henri Fabre's books."

SOUP'S SECRETS.

The Art of Combining and Seasoning Just Right.

ADVICE FOR MRS. NEWLYWED.

An Expert Tells How to Set About Measuring, Cooking and Creaming Different Ingredients—Timely Tips For a Food That Winter Demands.

Soup is such a necessary adjunct to the well balanced meal that it deserves more care in its preparation than is usually accorded.

In serving soup remember that a hot, thin soup should be served with a hearty meal and a thick heavy soup should be served with a more simple one.

To make good soup the first requisite is a set of the necessary cooking utensils. These consist of a large agate ware or aluminium soup kettle with a close fitting cover, a sharp meat knife, two puree strainers, one with a fine mesh and one with a coarse one, and a pair of scales. Next provide and always keep on hand the necessary spices and herbs. These are whole cloves, pepper corns, allspice and bay leaves; also red, white and black pepper, celery salt, sage, thyme and onion juice.

One should always keep in the pantry cornstarch, flour, rice, barley, sage, tapioca and arrowroot. Such vegetables as onions, celery, parsley, carrots, turnips and leek are often needed, but can be purchased in small quantities at any time of the year.

The capable cook or the careful housewife sees to it that soup stock has for its foundation good nourishing meat. Beef is perhaps best for the purpose, but any pieces of mutton or mutton bone, carcasses of fowls or "leftovers" can be used to advantage, and this fact makes soup an economical and satisfactory way of employing otherwise wasted materials, while the fat in marrowbones and the protein in shin and spongy rib bones help to form a healthful and strengthening liquid. The best rule for making soup stock is to put the ingredients in cold water, a pint of water to a pound of meat and bones; then bring this to a boil and let it simmer gently for a long time.

The scum which rises to the top after the simmering should be removed, and the vegetables, herbs and seasoning should be added during the last hour and a half of the prolonged simmering. Then strain and cool rapidly and do not skim off the fat which forms on the surface until about to use the stock, as it excludes the air.

Such stock can be used as the basis of a great many soups by the addition of different seasonings and flavorings. Cream soups are made by adding the pulp of vegetables or fish to milk or milk and cream. The main ingredient, whether tomatoes, celery, potatoes or onions or anything else, is first cooked with seasoning, then passed through a strainer and returned to the fire with the addition of the milk. It should then be thickened with a little flour and butter, the proportions being a quart of liquid, a pint of vegetable pulp, two tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter.

silk. Through the belt navy velvet ribbon is run, but the linen collar and cuffs, cluny edged, are the delectable points.

Scotch Short Bread.

To a quart of flour add a fourth as much butter and a quarter cupful of brown sugar. Work gradually together. When well blended roll into cakes half an inch thick and cut in rounds or squares. Bake in a slow oven for forty minutes.

FRENCH WOMEN SEW FOR GERMAN TROOPS.

In this photograph is shown one of the occupations to which the Germans have put many of the women inhabitants of villages in Northern France. Seamstresses are taught "tailoring" that the uniforms of the Kaiser's troops may be kept in repair. The two German officers have just completed inspecting a batch of work turned out. The officers appear to be pleased and the girls themselves do not seem particularly sullen. English reports claim, however, that the girls are forced to do this work much against their will.

ELLENVILLE

Ellenville, Oct. 30.—The Woman's Suffrage Club will hold a meeting at Edgebrook Clubhouse Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A large attendance of members is desired as this will be a meeting of unusual interest. Mrs. A. Gordon Norrie of Staatsburg, N. Y., chairman of the 10th district of the state, will be present and address the meeting. The meeting is open to the public and every one is cordially invited to be present. Refreshments will be served and an opportunity given to meet Mrs. Norrie, and discuss suffrage work.

There will be an important special meeting of the Ellenville board of trade Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at Norbury Hall. All members are requested to be present.

There will be a Hallowe'en party given by the members of the Reformed Church Sunday school Tuesday evening in the lecture room of the church.

The Boy Scouts are to patrol the streets and assist in keeping order Hallowe'en night.

The members of the Dorcas Society are invited to meet with Mrs. E. E. Count at her home on Park street Thursday afternoon. The ladies are busy sewing for the fair to be held in November.

The Standard Bearers, the newly organized young people's missionary society of the M. E. Church, are to spend the evening with Miss Gladys Tinsley at Mrs. George F. Andrews's home Friday evening.

County Superintendent Loughran recommends the placing of a new steel bridge on the present abutment at the head of the lake on Honk Hill.

The Ladies' Aid Society have presented to the M. E. Church one hundred copies of the Church Hymnal, which have been placed in the racks in the pews at the church.

Mrs. Frank Smith of Ilion, N. Y., and Miss Alice D. Wilklow of Schenectady were here for the funeral of their mother, Mrs. Lewis Wilklow.

Mr. and Mrs. Churchill and little son of Arden are visiting Mrs. Churchill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin G. Terwilliger, on North Main street.

The residence of John H. Divine on Center, corner of Childs street, is being repainted, which adds to the village improvements.

A very interesting session of the Epworth League was held at the M. E. Church Sunday evening at 6:45 o'clock. Mrs. W. H. Moser was the leader and the subject was "Am I Evading God's Call?" The junior reorganized with a good attendance Sunday afternoon, after having been closed down for the past four months.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the M. E. Church on Sunday morning next, with baptism and reception of members. Choir rehearsal will be held Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Kramel of Center street has been visiting the past week with her son and daughter at Newark.

Miss Dora Francis has taken board with Mrs. Hattie Vanderlyn for the winter.

Miss Laura Peck has sold her home on Spring street to Ralph Smith, who with his family are to occupy it. Miss Peck will continue to reside in the village.

It is understood that Mrs. W. C. McNally will go to Florida early in November and Richard Simpson and family leave for the south about November 20.

John Armstrong and family are not to move away as at first understood, but will remain in Ellenville during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Boyce spent the week end with friends at Newburgh.

Miss Ladue of Beacon is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Kehoe.

Mrs. Jacob Louck is entertaining her sisters, two right from Ireland, and two from New York city.

St. John's Church Notes.

Service on All Saints' Day, Wednesday, November first. There will be a celebration of the holy communion at St. John's Episcopal Church on Wall street on Wednesday morning, All Saints' Day, at 10 o'clock.

On Wednesday evening, November 1, there will be a meeting of the vestry of the church held at the parish house, at which time annual reports will be given and delegates will be chosen to represent the parish at the coming diocesan convention to be held in New York city.

On Thursday, November 2, the Women's Auxiliary of the District of Orange will meet at St. Mary's Church at Tuxedo. The meeting will open with a celebration of the holy communion at 11 a. m. In the afternoon speakers of note will address those present. All women from St. John's Church who expect to attend the meeting are asked to communicate at once with Mrs. George DuBois, No. 197 Greenkill avenue, telephone call No. 906-W, in order that the entertaining church women may be notified.

Rondout Presbyterian Church Notes.

The teachers, officers and older scholars of the Bible school will meet at the Manse this evening at 8 o'clock.

The subject for the Thursday evening prayer service will be "The Teaching of the Confession of Faith of the Presbyterian Church Concerning the Holy Scriptures." The subject is the first of a series of studies of the fundamentals of Christian faith.

Rally Day will be observed with a special program by the Bible school next Sunday at the morning service.

The Whatsoever Band will meet Friday afternoon in the chapel.

All the ladies of the church are requested to meet in the chapel on Friday afternoon to work on the decorations for the annual fair.

The dates for the fair will be November 21 and 22. Dinner will be served the first day at a slight advance over last year's price.

BLIND GIRLS LEARN GEOGRAPHY BY TOUCH.

(A Blind Pupil.)

New York, Oct. 30.—Wonders are being worked in teaching geography, natural history and other subjects to blind children at the New York Catholic Institute for the Blind. In teaching geography maps with raised letters and formations are used. They are placed on easels in front of the children and the boys and girls press their sensitive fingers over the contour and thus impress upon their minds the lines of the country they are studying. Stuffed birds and animals are given the children during natural history lessons, so that the impression on the child's mind may be as real as possible.

HAS HE KEPT US OUT OF WAR?

"He kept us out of war" is offered by the Democratic Party as a statement of a supreme accomplishment. That slogan is false. To accept it without thought or reason is dangerous to the life of the nation.

For months we have been conducting a border war with Mexico. At Vera Cruz we demanded that our flag be saluted. The demand was refused. We landed troops; a battle followed. We withdrew without the salute, bringing nineteen of our dead with us and leaving our honor behind; and to this day the salute demanded has not been fired.

The weakness of Mexico, not the strength of the United States, is all that has prevented our act of war from being turned into the serious fact of war.

If the slaughter of American citizens—men, women and children—by armed troops, if the killing of American soldiers by the soldiers of another nation, if the sacking of our towns is not war, what is it?

The Judge Advocate General of our army says it is war. The Mexicans say it is war. Wilson's acts show it is war, but Wilson's voice says it is peace.

The Truth is that it is more than war. It is war without honor and murder without reparation. It is a condition that makes every true citizen ashamed of the spectacle we have become in the eyes of other nations.

Wilson's course vitalized civil war in Mexico and border war with us. The vacillating and irresolute policy of the present administration has brought humiliation upon this country, both at home and abroad.

We have been at war; we are now at war; many lives have been lost; our honor has been besmirched, and yet the Democratic Party cries to the nation "He kept us out of war," "He has protected me and mine." The fact is that he has neglected our greatest treasures—the lives of our citizens and the honor of our country.

It is the world war in Europe, not the acts of the Wilson administration, which has kept us out of international complications that would have sorely tried our courage, and our strength.

Just prior to the outbreak of the war there was forming a combination of European nations to demand of us that we stop the disorder in Mexico, to demand protection of the lives and vast property of European citizens in Mexico, to declare that these European nations would give protection by force of arms if we did not.

What would that have meant? It would have meant that we must adopt a determined policy to enforce order in Mexico, which was the only duty consistent with the stewardship which we assumed under the Monroe Doctrine; or it would have meant war or the surrender of the Monroe Doctrine.

It was the accident of war in Europe which then prevented retribution for the policies of the administration in Mexico.

When the war is over those nations will again press their claims and we will face the consequences of the Wilson policy of watchful waiting.

Have we sunk so low that we can approve such a policy? Have we become so morally flabby that we will tolerate its continuance?

This administration has created war. It has created causes for future serious international friction.

Notes and words and shades of meaning born of rhetoric rather than straightforward patriotic sincerity, have marked the course of our relations with foreign nations.

Force of character, a fair and honorable course would have closed the debate which facility of language kept open. Force of character would have stopped murder on the high sea.

Does the low estate into which we have fallen among nations make a foundation upon which to build prestige for this country or safety and moral stamina for our children?

It is our tradition to honorably keep out of war but not to spinessly creep into war.

Mr. Wilson has not kept us out of war. Mr. Wilson has put us into war.

Mr. Wilson is making war upon the moral fiber of this nation.

GRANGERS VISIT ORANGE COUNTY

Lake Katrine Delegation Spend Most Enjoyable Evening as Guests of Cronomer Valley Grange, Near Newburgh.

About five o'clock on Friday afternoon, October 27, one might have seen a very jolly party of grangers, leaving the Lake Katrine Grange Hall, enroute for Balmville, Orange county, to visit the Cronomer Valley Grange. David Kieffer and his wife, Anna Snyder, Miss Alida Brewer, Miss Minnie Henniger and Mary B Brink were the first to start out, and soon after came Arthur Woolsey, Mr. and Mrs John Ten Broeck, Culver Ten Broeck and Worthy Master C. E Davis. They were followed by Marie L. Furguson, Margery Brett and Howland Kinkade, and on the way into Kingston Mr and Mrs C. H Van Etten were added to their party number. On reaching the home of John Beehler on Albany avenue, Mr. Beehler joined the merry party with his car with Mrs. Sweeney and Frances Brink After changing places in the cars until all were comfortably settled, the four autos wended their way toward Wilbur, across the Eddyville bridge or the South Rondout ferry, as their wishes lay, and passing through Ulster Park, Esopus, Milton, Marlborough, Highland and other places, well known to grangers for the pleasant times spent in these place, where grange meetings had been held and enjoyed by the Katrine grangers, they soon reached Balmville, where they knew a very hearty welcome awaited them

It would have been interesting to have taken a snapshot of the occupants of the first two cars while they waited at a fork of the road at Balmville near Newburgh fearing that those not so well acquainted as they would go on into Newburgh where the Republicans were holding a splendid rally, having a fine parade and hearing excellent speakers But the welcome awaiting them at the Cronomer Valley Hall surpassed even that splendid scene, and soon the lights of the hall could be seen and the grangers were there, with a reception committee giving us a royal welcome Everyone felt at home at once Shortly after the arrival of the four cars another car with Mr and Mrs G Parish and Donald and Kenneth Parish came swelling the number to twenty-three

After the regular grange meeting conducted by Worthy Master Staples was held the Cronomer Valley Grange gave an excellent and very entertaining program A Hallowe'en farce, in which there were spirits, witches devils and Yama Yama girls and boys participating was the first number on the program and many jokes were cracked on the Katrine grangers as well as the entertaining grange. Most [illegible] songs, etc were well enjoyed by all and Worthy Master Farley of the Orange County Pomona gave an excellent address very humorous, as well as instructive and interesting

Mr. Parr, the lecturer of the Cronomer Valley Grange, presided ably over the lecturer's hour, part of which was conducted in the Grange room on the second floor, which was decorated with portraits of masters and past masters statuary and paintings and other ornaments, and the remainder of the program was completed in the banqueting room This room was very tastefully decorated with Hallowe'en emblems of crepe paper shades, pumpkins, beautiful red cheeked apples, etc., and the tables were well laden with delicious food, which all enjoyed thoroughly. After the banquet toasts were given by members of both Granges. Worthy Master Davis responded to the address of welcome given by Worthy Master Staples, and other toasts followed by David Kieffer Anna Snyder Miss A. Brewer and other Grangers A toast was also given by Worthy Master Secore of Hensonburgh Grange and at the conclusion of the banquet and toasts, the young people enjoyed dancing and a social time followed until after midnight, when the Lake Katrine Grangers, after many expressions of heartfelt appreciation for the very pleasant and enjoyable evening they had spent, were given, said "Auf Wiedersehn" to their sister Grange, and with cheers and much jollity started for home. Nothing that could have been done to give us a royal welcome and an enjoyable evening was omitted, and everyone who went felt amply repaid and only wished it was to be repeated.

The Cronomer's Valley Grange is the one which has been such a wonderful inspiration to the Lake Katrine Grange, not only in our hall, which we designed from theirs, with many helpful suggestions on their part and in our degree team and regalia, in which they helped us very greatly, but in their spirit of fraternity and spirit of cordiality which they have always shown.

GUARD SUED FOR $5,000

The infantile paralysis quarantine established by the town of Rochester during the summer was not entirely satisfactory to Minnie Geller of New York city and she attempted to make her escape from property which was under quarantine. Al. Markle, who was employed by the town health officials as one of the quarantine guard, caught and returned her to the premises Some time afterward she sued him for $5,000 for assault, alleging that he had used undue violence toward her, and her husband also sued Markle for $1,000 for loss of his wife's services resulting from the alleged assault.

The suits brought by the Gellers were laid in New York county, and on Saturday a motion was made on behalf of Markle before Supreme Court Justice Cohalan of New York to change the place of trial of each action from New York to Ulster county Judge Cohalan granted the motion, which was made by County Attorney John W. Eckert for Markle and was opposed by John Joseph of New York city, counsel for the Gellers

Dye Before You Patch.

"Never patch a garment just before it goes to the dyers," was the advice of a young woman in a dyeing establishment. "Unless the patch and the thread it is sewed on with are exactly the same kind of material as the garment they will come out of the dye pot different shades. Here is a blue skirt that was brought to us cream colored. The cloth had worn through in several places and the owner had patched the tiny holes so painstakingly that the patches could not be detected in the original color, but after the dyeing they showed up a darker blue The amount of dye any material will take depends upon how much cotton, wool or silk it contains It is so hard to determine that exactly that any garment that has to be mended can be matched much better after dyeing "—New York Sun

Old Leather Bottles.

Leather bottles, or blackjacks, were common in Europe two centuries ago The bottles were often made of one skin doubled up and closely stitched together, leaving an aperture for the neck. The stopper was made of wood, horn or old leather. A good deal of care was required in the preparation of the leather, which had to be oiled and worked with hammers to make it supple and then washed with a lye so that all the impurity was entirely removed, leaving the leather clean and dry No moisture or air had any effect on it.

EASTERN SOCIETY FOLLOWS THE HOUNDS.

(Sidney Erlanger Taking a Fence.)

Red Bank, N. J, Oct 26—With the arrival of brisk fall weather society all over the east has turned to the hounds and at any time the peaceful quiet of the woods or country lane is liable to be disturbed by the baying of the pack and the dash of the mounted hunters. This photograph was made as Sidney Erlanger, of New York, vaulted his mount over an unexpected fence, while following the hounds of the Monmouth County Hunt Club.

MRS MARGARET BEUTINGER.

"KILLED HIM TO SAVE MY LIFE," CRIES WIFE.

Newark, N J Oct 28.—That she killed her husband to save her own life, is the defense of Mrs Margaret Beutinger, on trial for the killing of her husband on July 11 last in their home at Caldwell, N. J. Mrs Beutinger told her story with tears streaming down her face and sobs shaking her body Her four children sat in the court room. All followed her words with interest, excepting little Billy, who lay asleep in the lap of his aunt

Mrs Beutinger said that her husband was a physically powerful and high tempered man who frequently drank to excess. She said he weighed 250 pounds The night of the shooting, she said, he had several times attacked her and that she finally shot him when she thought he was about to carry out his threat to kill her.

New Jersey still maintains its reputation for speedy justice. In fact in the trial of Mrs Margaret Beutinger for the killing of her husband, it threatens to break its own record.

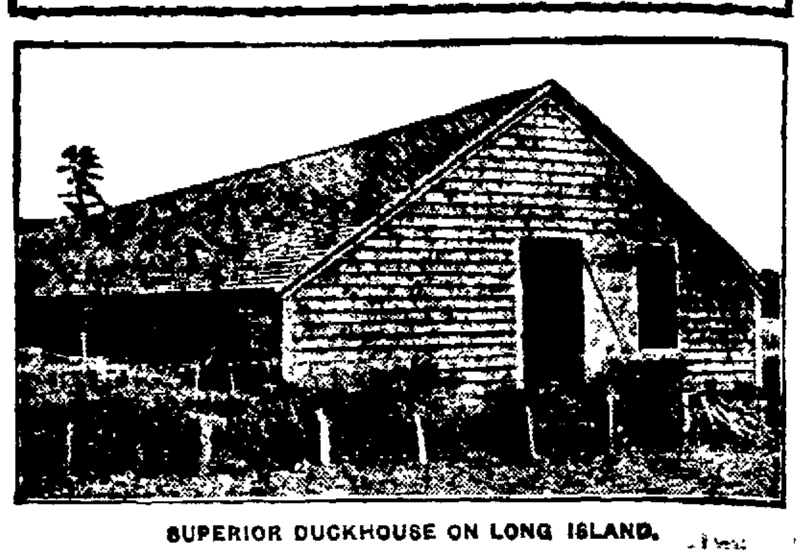
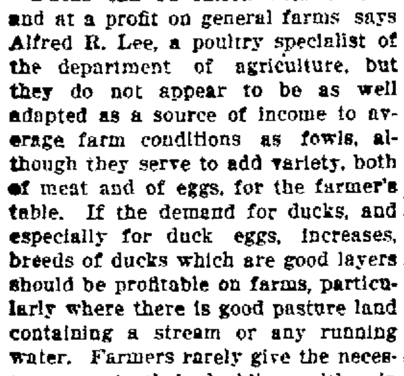
PROFITABLE DUCK INDUSTRY ON FARMS



SUPERIOR DUCKHOUSE ON LONG ISLAND.

Ducks can be raised with success and at a profit on general farms says Alfred R. Lee, a poultry specialist of the department of agriculture, but they do not appear to be as well adapted as a source of income to average farm conditions as fowls, although they serve to add variety, both of meat and of eggs, for the farmer's table. If the demand for ducks, and especially for duck eggs, increases, breeds of ducks which are good layers should be profitable on farms, particularly where there is good pasture land containing a stream or any running water. Farmers rarely give the necessary care to their ducklings, either in feeding or in marketing, to be able to cater to the trade in fancy green ducks.

Duck farms are usually located on light, sandy soil, generally on sloping land, where the droppings will leach freely into the soil, so that the land keeps sweet and clean. The farm should have good shipping facilities to aid both in shipping products and in buying supplies. The arrangement of the buildings should be planned to economize labor and allow for future increase of the equipment. The incubator cellar should be convenient to the brooder house, the brooder house to the growing house and pens, and these buildings to the killing house. The pens in the houses, the outside yards, and the arrangement of the buildings should be planned so that the ducks may be easily located. Convenient watering arrangements are essential where large numbers of ducks are kept, as they require a large amount of drinking water. While ducks may be kept successfully under very intensive conditions, it is advisable to allow considerable yard space. Double yards, which may be rotated and planted to quick-growing crops, such as oats, wheat, and rye, are good for intensive duck farms.



Pekin Duck.

It is advisable to have a pond or stream for the breeding ducks, as they usually give better fertility under these conditions, although on some successful duck farms the ducks are always kept on dry land. The young ducks on some farms which have a pond are not allowed to go into the water except to bathe and clean their feathers just before marketing. Other growers, however, allow the green ducks free access to ponds or streams until they are marketed.

There are 11 standard breeds of ducks which may be divided into three classes: (1) the meat class, including the Pekin, Aylesbury, Muscovy, Rouen, Cayuga, Buff and Swedish; (2) the egg class, which includes the Indian Runner, and (3) the ornamental class, composed of the Call, the Crested White, and the Black East India. The common "puddle" duck is kept on many farms in the middle West and South, and is generally of small size, a poor layer and an undesirable type of market duck. Excepting the Muscovy, all of our economic breeds of ducks are said to have originated from the Mallard, or common wild ducks.

DETERMINING SEX OF CHICKS

Certain Marks by Which Pullets May Be Distinguished From Cockerels After Hatching.

(By C. S. ANDERSON, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.)

With the rapidly growing day-old chick industry the question of sex determination naturally arises. Many buyers would like to order all pullets, all cockerels or a given number of each, and would be glad to pay an additional price for this assurance.

The sex of Barred Plymouth Rock chicks can be told with a reasonable degree of accuracy. The pullet has a dark, willow-colored beak, sometimes streaked with black. It is of finer bone than the cockerel and the legs are dark and smoky colored. The cockerel has bright yellow legs and beak and usually a coarse head and prominent eye. The cockerel is a gray or slate color while the pullet is darker. The white tip of the wings and spot on top of the head are most noticeable on the pullet, due to the contrast with the deeper black. This means can only be used to denote the sex the first couple of days. After this time they all take on the one characteristic blue color, the beak and legs of the pullet fade out to yellow.

Similar methods can be employed with all parti-colored breeds. With solid colored birds the best means of determining sex is the prominent cockerel.

NATURE'S WAY FOR CHICKENS

Follow That Rule as Far as Possible in Feeding and Caring for Young Animals.

We should follow nature—or rather let nature have her own way as nearly as possible—in feeding and caring for any young animal. Who ever heard of a chicken having bowel, or any other trouble, when the old hen found most of its food, and cared for it as only a hen can? When we assume to take nature's place in feeding and caring for animals, we are on dangerous ground.

PREVENT LICE AND CHOLERA

Both Flourish in Hot Weather, and May Be Avoided by Little Work Before Trouble Begins.

Lice and cholera germs flourish in hot weather, and both by a little work may be prevented.

Running for remedies and cleaning up when a flock is down with contagious disease is certainly a ridiculous and fruitless proceeding and exhibition of how not to do it.

PROFIT IN CAPON INDUSTRY

Prevailing Scarcity of Meat Creating Demand for Fowls—Necessary Operation Is Simple.

The capon industry which now can be carried on profitably is sure to develop rapidly, in the opinion of N. L. Harris, superintendent of the poultry plant at the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Where capons are raised in large numbers, says Harris, it now is possible to ship them direct to large cities where there is a ready sale at good prices. Owing to the prevailing scarcity of meat-producing animals it is probable that the capon will find a permanent place on many of the farms of the middle West and will be a source of constant profit.

Numerous buyers in small towns have made quotations in the last season ranging from 14 to 18 cents a pound live weight, depending upon the size of the capon. If capons are raised on the farm this allows a good margin for profit. The operation necessary to produce capons is simple and can be performed by anyone after a little practice. The capon does not as a rule grow much more rapidly than the cockerel but puts on more pounds of meat for the amount of food consumed.

SELECTION OF GOOD LAYERS

Pullet Should Have Fine Head, Alert Eyes and Comb and Face and Wattles of Fine Texture.

Judging poultry is said to be finer art than the selection of other farm animals, but the man or woman who picks pullets with fine heads alert eyes and combs, faces and wattles of fine texture has taken the first step toward increased egg production.

Good pullets should stand square on their feet, with legs wide apart, with the front end of the body slightly higher than the posterior end, and with a long back and tail carried rather high. The body should be wedge shaped, yielding ample room for the reproductive and digestive organs.

CONVENIENT SITE FOR HOUSE

As Women Usually Look After Chick-en Flock It Is Well to Have Coop Near Farm Dwelling.

The women usually look after the chickens. If a man wants to help his wife he can do so by locating the chicken coop not too far from the house and in a handy location and by building it for convenience with feed hoppers, shell hoppers, water dishes and alfalfa racks.

ADVERTISEMENT WRITING.

ADVERTISERS who expect to win success must "stick to the game like a barnacle on a boat's bottom." But they should remember that the public is tired of "Gigantic Sales at Astounding Prices." Let me help you put "pep" into your publicity. I write advertisements that do not "jerk"—they "pull" steadily until they exert wonderful drawing power. My services may be had by any business man at reasonable terms. George M. Hellmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

DEMOCRATS LABOR TO BOOST WILSON

Advertised as a "non-partisan" meeting of union and non-union workers in Kingston and vicinity, the meeting in the opera house Sunday afternoon proved an adroit maneuver to put labor on record for President Wilson and the Democratic ticket. It was non-partisan only in being non-Republican. Ex-Alderman William B. Martin, Democratic candidate for assemblyman, presided and the speakers were Henry Lundrigan, legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; Daniel Russell, introduced as ex-editor of the Labor World, Ex-Congressman Rowland B. Mahany of Buffalo, a Republican holding down a job as a conciliator in the Federal Department of Labor, James P. Holland, president of the State Federation of Labor, and Edward I. Hannah of the International Pavers Union of New York.

THE JOINERS.

News of Interest to Members of Fraternal Societies.

The following lodges will hold meetings this evening:

Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. and A. M., in Masonic Hall, Strand, corner of Broadway. The second degree will be conferred.

Franklin Lodge, No. 37, K. of P., in Pythian Hall, John, corner of Wall street.

Franklin Lodge, No. 37, Knights of Pythias, will confer the rank of Knight at its rooms in Pythian Hall tonight. The master of work requests all brothers to be present at an early hour so that there will be no delay in conferring the rank. A large delegation of visiting Knights is expected.

The members of the Pythian Club expect to hold a large dance in the near future, which promises to be one of the social events of the season, date of which will be announced later. Election returns will be received at the club election night, and Knights will receive a cordial welcome by the club members on that night.

"Prince of Pilsen" Tonight.

The standard old friend of musical comedy admirers, "The Prince of Pilsen," which will be given at the Kingston opera house tonight, is about as charming a musical comedy, considered for the music that is in it, as any of the modern comedies. Its popularity is attested by the large audiences where the present troupe has been playing, and today's Schenectady newspapers announce that at both performances there on Saturday the two audiences were much pleased. The Gazette says: "The company was of considerable size and the singing of the choruses successful. In such group work as the Hunters' Chorus the stage looked well and the music was pleasantly rendered. The Prince's solos and songs with the other principals were all encored often."

Mr. O'Connor Promoted.

Peter O'Connor, who for a number of years has been a salesman in the employ of the Grand Union Tea Company on Wall street, has been promoted to the assistant managership of that company's Kingston branch. Mr. O'Connor, who is a hustler, will undoubtedly make good in his new position.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 30.—Although there were the usual opening gains made in many issues, stocks were in supply and advances and recessions occurred in many issues during the first fifteen minutes. Union Pacific opened ⅝ higher at 151 with a reaction to 150¾, and U. S. Steel Common opened at 119 and yielded to 118½ on the next few sales. Some of the war order stocks made moderate gains with American Locomotive moving up 1⅞ to 84¼. Baldwin Locomotive advanced ½ to 84. International Paper continued in brisk demand, gaining 2¼ points to 55⅝. Copper stocks were generally fractionally higher, Anaconda advancing ⅝ to 96⅛, Kennicott ⅜ to 55½, and Inspiration ½ to 68¾. Utah Copper moved up 1⅛ to 107½. American Smelting was unusually active and strong, advancing ⅞ to 112. Rock Island, after advancing ⅞ to 33¼, reacted to 32⅝. Willys-Overland made a gain of ½ at the opening to 44¼, and then declined to 43. Central Leather opened 1¼ higher at 97¾, followed by a reaction to 96¾.

There were many mixed movements in the forenon with some issues showing losses of 1 to 3 points, while others made the same amount of gain. Steel Common declined to 117¾ and then rallied to 118⅞. Industrial Alcohol fell 3½ points to 142, and weakness was shown in the motor stocks with Willys-Overland declining from 44¼ to 41¾, and Studebaker from 131 to 129. American Zinc moved up 3¼ to 50¼, and Butte and Superior advanced over 2 points to 66½ American Smelting advanced 2 points to above 113. Atlantic Gulf and West Indies made a further advance of 3 points to a new high record to 107½. Money loaning at 2½ per cent.

The decline following the news of the sinking of the steamship Marina ended in the early afternoon, when many of the specialties developed pronounced strength, International Paper advancing above 60, a gain of seven points for the day, Industrial Alcohol rallying from 138 to 142½, and Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies made a new high record of 109¾, against 104 at the close Saturday. Reading rose to 108⅝. The other railroad stocks were in good demand at advancing prices.

The market closed strong. Rock Island was the most important feature in the last hour of trading, selling at 36, a gain of over 3 points for the day. Atlantic Gulf and West Indies after seling at 107½, a new high recrd, reacted to 107. U. S. Steel Common yielded about a point, selling below 118 in the late trading. International Paper ranged around 60, the highest price touched since the Flower boom. Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds firm.

Love for Our Fellow Man.

How many long and terrible feuds have arisen between neighbors often over nothing more important than the location of a line fence ten feet one way or another, and sometimes these feuds have led even to murder. If we could only bring ourselves to tear out of our hearts the first appearance of any growth of hate! Let's try it.

ABOUT THE FOLKS.

Miss Mamie Lange of Third avenue, is visiting relatives in Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Frank Brodie and family of Brooklyn are visiting Mrs. Brodie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Fox, No. 41 East Strand.

Mrs. James Addis and daughter, Blanche, of Kerhonkson, are spending several days at Poughkeepsie and other places.

Mr. and Mrs. John Martin entertained T. H. Martin, R. M. Martin, N. Hennesy, S. Docherty, N. Smith and J. Gogarty of Cornwall and Newburgh Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Tingue and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Tingue of Cobleskill motored to this city on Saturday and visited Mr and Mrs. E. B. Fox at No. 41 East Strand.

Master William Pittman, who was recently operated on for appendicitis by Drs. Frank B. Quinlan, William J. and John G. O'Leary, is rapidly improving at the Benedictine Sanitarium.

Mr. and Mrs Charles C. Schick of 34 Davis street, Wilbur, are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a nine pound boy Thursday, October 26. Both mother and child are doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Buley of Modesto, Calif., are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter October 24. Mrs. Buley was formerly Miss Olga Thompson, daughter of Edgar F. Thompson, of this city.

Mrs. Robert Kipling, the Misses Elizabeth and Ada Kipling of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellisin, G. D. Ellison and Dr. and Mrs. Hodges, have all returned after spending a delightful week at Camp Avanstan.

John Goldrick is improving rapidly at the Benedictine Sanitarium, where he was removed after his Ford auto had crashed into a trolley car on Broadway on Saturday morning. His most serious injury was a deep cut above the eye, but will not injure his eyesight.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Perry and daughter, Miss Ethel, Mr. and Mrs. Lester P. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Pfrommer and sons, Joseph and Louis, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Colclough, Miss Mabel Eckert and Walter H. Gill enjoyed a motor trip to Pittsfield, Mass., Sunday.

His Worst Book.

In "A Last Memory of Robert Louis Stevenson," by Charlotte Eaton, this curious incident is recorded: "What do you consider your brightest failure?" the novelist was asked. "'Doctor Jekyl and Mr. Hyde,'" he replied, without a moment's hesitation, adding: "That is the worst thing I ever wrote." Yet in a standard book of brief biographies this is the one book title given under the name of the author.

Forever Open.

"My nephew, Rupert—the lop-eared one, you remember—has come home from the university as knowing as an unabridged dictionary," grimly stated old P. G. Pester. "But, unlike that valuable tome, you can't shut him up when you want to."—Judge.

European Literature.

It was not until the European mind cast away forever the fetters of Renaissance traditions that Shelley and Wordsworth became possible in England, that Goethe and Heine were possible in Germany, or Victor Hugo and Alfred de Musset in France.

Has Another Name.

She (thoughtful)—"Did you ever think much about reincarnation, dear?" '18 (otherwise)—"Think about it? I eat it nearly every day—only we call it hash."—London Saturday Journal.

ASHOKAN.

Ashokan, Oct. 30.—The monthly meeting of the M. E. Ladies' Aid will be held at the parsonage at 2 p. m. on November 2.

The preaching service in the M. E. Church will be at 7:30 p. m. till further notice. The afternoon service on the first Sunday in the month will be much missed by those who have a long ways to come.

The M. E. Sunday school is progressing finely since it resumed October 2. New chairs and table have been added to the cradle class room through the kindness of Mrs. Terwilliger. A social will be held in the near future for the Sunday school fund.

Miss Maude Perry visited at her mother's last week. She expects to spend the winter in Connecticut.

H. G. Lennox is spending some time at his sister's, Mrs. Clarence Moe.

Mrs. Mary Keegan visited old friends in Ashokan over Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Arthur Winne is spending her vacation at Stanley Winne's in Bridgeport, Conn.

Henry Elmendorf returned Saturday from a week's visit at his daughter's in Schenectady.

Mrs. E. H. Bogart has closed her summer home and returned to Kingston.

Datus Gulnack has moved in the Warren house for the winter.

E. D. M. Secore met with a painful accident while drawing in corn last Monday. A pitchfork slipped and struck him in the leg above the knee. Dr. Dumond is attending him.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Cudney and son, Kenneth, have been spending some time at his father's, Herman Cudney.

John Secore was home over Sunday as also was Miss Ada Cudney.

Miss Azenith Bishop visited at Vega, N. Y., over Saturday and Sunday.

Buffalo Grain Market.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Buffalo, Oct. 30.—Spring wheat No. 1 northern $2.13. Winter wheat No. 2 white $1.84; No. 2 red $1.86.

Corn 2 yellow, $1.15¼; No. 3 yellow, $1.15.

Rye No. 2, $1.42.

Fruit Juice Used in Milk.

Juice of the fruit of the massaranduba tree, found plentifully in Brazil, is used in many neighborhoods in place of cow's milk. It is sweet to the taste and milky in appearance, but after 24 hours it turns into an elastic mass similar to rubber in its raw state. The fruit possesses nourishing, pectoral and emollient properties.

Do Good in Right Manner.

The manner of saying or of doing anything goes a great way in the value of the thing itself. It was well said of him that called a good office, if done harshly and with an ill will, a stony piece of bread: "It is necessary for him that is hungry to receive it, but it almost chokes a man in the going down."—Seneca.

THE RICHEST BOY IN THE WORLD.

(Thomas L. Shevlin, Jr.).

If you had $65,000,000 would you
Endow a university, or
Spend it in the "Great White Way" or
Devote it to war relief, or,
Establish a charitable foundation, or
Invest it in great capitalistic undertakings, or,
Or, or, or?

Thomas L. Shevlin, Jr., shown in the photograph with Miss N. Carson, a New York society leader, is the baby heir to $65,000,000 and the richest boy in the world. Little Thomas just now probably doesn't even think of the fortune some day to be his, but some time in the future he will, and then what will he do? Thomas inherits the vast fortune left by his multi-millionaire father, sportsman, financier and former Yale football star.

DANCE NEW BOOKS INTO THE LIBRARY

Terpsichorean Whirl Friday Night at St. Mary's Hall an Important Part in the Perfect Circle.

There are three essential things to make a public dance a success. A good floor, good music and a good crowd.

These three elements will be combined in the dance which is to be given at St. Mary's Hall on Friday of this week.

Added to the pleasure of the dance itself, those who attend will have the satisfaction of knowing that their patronage is helping one of the most popular and useful institutions of the city, the Kingston City Library.

The library needs new books, books cost money, money buys a ticket, ticket admits you to the dance, dance affords you a good time, your good time helps the library. There is the perfect circle, back where we started from and no loss to anybody. Of course, what is no loss to anybody is everybody's gain. If there is anything the matter with that logic, by all means stay away from the dance.

Tickets may be purchased at the library, or from Mrs. C. Gordon Reel and Mrs. Everett Fowler, who are arranging the affair. It is hoped that all who are interested in the dance or the institution for which it is given, will purchase tickets in advance.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Oct. 30.—"Those who know John McGraw best, do not take seriously his charges that the Giants threw the final series of the year to the Dodgers; they look upon McGraw's utterances merely as a sort of exhaust for his shattered nervous system."

So asserts William Chase Temple, donor of the famous Temple Cup, and a student of the diamond game for 40 years.

"McGraw is a nervous, highly strung fellow, with wonderful courage and coolness in the fiercest of the fighting, but with a temperament that makes him go to pieces absolutely after the crisis is over," said Temple. "I first came to know this about McGraw more than 22 years ago, and the study of his career since then reveals the same characteristics.

"Back in 1894 the Boston and Baltimore teams rushed to the wire almost nose and nose. Upon the last game of the year depended the pennant. Boston got away in the lead and held it until the ninth. Finally the Baltimore club filled the bases in the final inning, with two men out. A hit meant the pennant for Baltimore; failure spelled its loss.

McGraw Collapsed After Victory.

"And it was John McGraw's turn at bat. Confidently, swaggeringly, he walked to the plate, with a sneer upon his face. In all that ball park, John McGraw, facing the greatest task of his career up to that time, was the coolest and calmest. He seemed like an icicle.

"The ball was served up to him, McGraw looked it over and then let it slip by. The next one came up and McGraw, timing his swing perfectly, shot it on a line over the infield for the hit that won the game—and the pennant of 1894—for his club.

"Immediately after the game was over, McGraw rushed into the clubhouse ahead of his mates. When they arrived there they found him in a far corner in tears. McGraw was crying in hysteria; babbling. His temperament had enabled him to face the strain—and bravely. But as soon as the tension had snapped, John McGraw collapsed.

"That is typical of McGraw, and that incident of more than a score of years ago explains to many of the old timers why McGraw made charges that seemed sensational at the time. While the Giants were breezing along on the record-making journey, McGraw was cool, confident, collected. Nothing rattled him; nothing caused him to lose his poise. And then came the defeat at the hands of the Braves which ended the winning streak after it had tallied 26.

McGraw Couldn't Understand.

"With the severing of the string, McGraw's nervous system, no doubt became unhinged. And when the Giants, after steamrolling every foe over a sweep of nearly one month, went to Brooklyn and put up such a miserable exhibition, the sight of it was more than McGraw could bear. He couldn't understand at the time that the let-down of his men after their great record was but natural. He came to regard them as a peerless combination; as a team that could not play anything other than superb baseball whenever it tried.

"After the Giants had won about 10 games during their spring streak of 17 in a row, I wired McGraw at Cincinnati. I pointed out to him that it wasn't good for a ball club to win too many in a row—that the let-down afterwards would work havoc with the team for a while. What I then predicted came true. The Giants cracked in about twenty different places after they had won their 17 straight.

Winning Streaks Hurt Team.

"That has been the case all through baseball history. I have been interested in the game in a vital way for something like 40 years. In all that time I never have seen any club win a big string of games consecutively without slipping badly for some time afterward. That has been proven this season, not merely in the case of the Giants, but by ther clubs.

"The St. Louis Browns won quite a few games in a row during midseason and got within striking distance of the pennant. Then their string was broken and somehow or other, the Browns couldn't get back into stride again. The Red Sox achieved consecutive victories along in August and seemed to have cinched the pennant. Their march was halted by a defeat and for two or three weeks afterward they did little better than flounder along.

"Had McGraw realized this the chances are that he never would have broken out with his strange and unreasonable sounding charges. If he hadn't been in a highly nervous state he could have looked at things squarely. But McGraw was not in any mental condition that would permit him to analyze matters. All he could see was that his ball team, which had gone day after day without wobbling, was piling up errors one after another; that the men who had been smashing the fences had become suddenly impotent with the bat; that the pitchers who had been hurling in wonderful fashion suddenly 'cracked.'

"And so, John McGraw driven by his shattered nerves, rushed from the field and uttered charges against his men, charges that he probably never meant; charges of the kind that if someone else had made them would have enraged him to a point where he would have loaded himself with a few howitzers and gone man-hunting."

Much Iron in New Zealand.

Great deposits of iron exist in New Zealand, the iron sand at Taranaki, near New Plymouth, being particularly noted. There attempts were made as early as 1848 to produce pigiron in commercial quantities, but none met with success until recently, when a plant constructed upon advanced ideas turned out a few tons of excellent quality.

Amusement for Soldiers.

Soldiers at the front in France enjoyed performances of a traveling theater company, financed by a group of philanthropic French people. The entire paraphernalia necessary for these performances was packed in three big wagons which traveled from point to point along the lines in France.

Presto SELF-RAISING FLOUR

Made so: ¼ cup butter, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup molasses, ½ cup milk, 1¾ cups Presto, 1 teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon cinnamon.

Cream the butter, add the sugar, molasses and yolk of egg. Mix and sift together the dry ingredients and add them alternately with the milk to the first mixture. Lastly, cut in the beaten white of egg. Bake in a moderate oven.

Then try the other recipes you'll find in and on the Presto package.

WHO WANTS OFFICE?

Vice Presidency of P. O. Social Club a Yawning Vacancy.

To the Editor of The Freeman.
Dear Sir:—

We dislike to trouble you again, but we find that we must have your assistance. The fact is that we need a vice-president in our club. It may seem strange to you that we should be unable to find on our large membership roll one who would be willing to accept this office. We have tried hard enough to select one from our midst, but have had no success. The reason is evident. Our president is so regular and punctual in his attendance that the vice-president would hardly ever have an opportunity to preside over the meeting. It had been hoped that some time or another the president would come to the meeting in such a condition that he would be unfit to preside and thereby give the vice-president a chance to show what he could do, but as the only stimulants the president takes are tea and coffee, this has never happened. These beverages are supplied by our secretary in lieu of cash in payment of his dues. The treasurer supplies the glasses—plus and minus D. They do not hold much however. It is for these reasons that we are driven to this step to secure our vice-president. We will direct our treasurer to pay you out of the first money that comes into his hands; we know you will be patient. Or if you prefer the candidates may be sent C. O. D., subject to inspection, examination and approval. We will accept any one of average intelligence. It is desirable that our vice-president shall be a manufacturer or dealer in cigars, cigarettes and tobacco. These will be accepted in payment of his dues. A person possessing less than average intelligence will also prove acceptable, provided he will agree to say very little. We have appointed a committee to interview the candidates. Now let them come, but only one at a time.

Respectfully,
THE P. O. SOCIAL CLUB.

"SETTING UP" EXERCISE GOOD FOR SOLDIERS.

(Mel Sheppard.)

New York, Oct. 30.—Private Mel Sheppard, of the Sixty-ninth Regiment, is in New York today on furlough for the purpose of training the athletes of the Millrose A. C. Mel says that some great athletes are being turned out on the border and asserts as his opinion that one of the finest things to keep the boys on the border in condition are the "setting up" exercises recently adopted by the army. In Mel's opinion those exercises as much tend to harden the men as the marches and drilling to which they are put regularly as part of the military discipline.
